DEATHS IN EXPLOSION ON TRENTON INCREASED TO SIX

$3500 IS BEING RAISED FOR GIVE AWAY PRIZES

Mexia's Trade Tour and Trades Day promises to be the biggest event of its kind in recent years. The merchants and business men, wholesalers, manufacturers, and retailers are all taking a lively interest in the plans and liberal contributons have been made to the $3500 fund for prizes that will be awarded on Trades Day. Committees have been at work this week, following a meeting held at the J. I. Riddle Undertaking Company Monday, where details were worked out. The committees number three, one working North of Commerce, another south of Commerce and the third along Belknap. The day will be featured by the help of all local civic organizations and hundreds are expected to participate in the tour advertising the day. The date for the tour is October 28, one week from today.

Revival Gets Off To A Good Start

The tent meeting being held under the auspices of the First Baptist church in this city and which begun Sunday is now under full sway, with a big number of people ready to go forward with the pastor, Rev. Joe Jeffers, assisted by Paul B. Harper.

Both services so far held were well attended, the crowd being seated with difficulty. There are more seats being supplied and there will be ample room for all who will come.

The music is in charge of Mr. Paul B. Harper, assisted by the three choirs. Junior, Intermediate and Senior. Mrs. Ira Needham and Mrs. Paul B. Harper are rendering beautiful music at the pianos. No wonder the crowd sings with such fine leadership. Mr. Harper sang two beautiful solos Sunday. The spirit saith the Lord." The seceration of the singer did much to help the service and were indeed a sermon in song."

The text for the morning service was found in Zech. 4-6. "Not by might nor by power but by my spirit saith the Lord." The sermon was especially addressed to Christians. The day has come not will come, but has come when Christians must face the issue of more consecrated lives. Mothers must wake up to their responsibilities as mothers and fathers as fathers. The day of a revival or revolution is at hand. There issues, therefore a clarion call to every man and woman of God to line up and fight for God.

We must do this through family prayer. The pastor in his stirring appeal called all of the families back to prayer.

The text for the evening service was 2 Chron. 6-14. If my people who are called by my name will humble themselves and pray and turn from their wicked ways and seek my face then will I hear from heaven and forgive their sins and heal their lands. About 900 people heard the sermon Sunday night. If Christians will humble themselves and pray the condition which our master gives us to meet His spirit will come upon us in a mighty way. Let us meet his conditions.

Monday Night.

A good Monday night crowd. The services was not lengthy but full of interest and enthusiasm from beginning to end.

The subject was on the Greatest Need in Mexia—Prayer. "Ask and it shall be given Thee—seek and ye shall find knock and it shall be opened unto you." And again "Ye have not because ye ask not, ye ask and receive not because ye ask amiss, that ye might consume it upon your own lusts."

There was one addition at the close of the service.

Landis Summons Yde In Ball Scandal

EMIL YDE

Emil Yde, star pitcher for the Pittsburgh Pirates, has been summoned to Chicago to appear before Baseball Commissioner Landis "with any information he may have" regarding the baseball scandal for which Jimmy O'Connell and Cozy Dolan, of the Giants, were banished from the game. Yde is said to have declared he did not believe they were the only players involved in the scandal.

UNION MEMBERS WANT MORE PAY FOR THE LADIES

CHICAGO, Oct. 21.—Demand for wages high enough to enable them to buy three pairs of silk stockings for their wives each year was made in the request for increased pay on file with the United States Labor Board for consideration.

The brotherhood of railway and steamship clerks, freight handlers, express and station employees declare white collars are not so important for themselves but that the wives should have the silk raiment.

The silk stocking wage demand is a supplementary request filed by President E. H. Fitzgerald, to the salary increase asked last week.

At the present rate of pay, the clerks contend the average wife can afford new silks only "once in a hundred years."

The wages asked are equivalent to the peak war time rate of pay for clerks. It is approximately a ten per cent increase over the present pay.

Large Donations To Campaigns To Be Investigated

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—"We intend to follow every lead and get all the facts.

"If a man makes a large contribution to a political campaign I believe it is proper to inquire whetehr he expects to serve some selfish interest."

Chairman Borah made this statement here today as the Senate inquiry to determine whether corrupt or excessive use has been made of money in the presidential campaign resumed after a recess following the hearing in Chicago.

Borah said the committee would seek the source of every dollar collected, its disposition and the benefits, if any, expected by contributors to the campaigns of the two old parties and the independent movement.

Clem L. Shaver, chairman, and James W. Gerard, treasurer of the Democratic National Committee are the first witnesses scheduled to appear before the committee this afternoon.

The democrats anticipated action of the committee in calling for their campaign contributions from Jesse H. Jones, director of finances, gave out in New York a list of contributors and amounts in the party's campaign fund to date.

TEXTBOOKS ARE CENTRALIZED SAYS TEXAS SURVEY

FORT WORTH, Texas, Oct. 21. Texas has gone further in Centralizing control of public school textbooks than have most states, according to Dr. George A. Works, director of the Texas School Survey. He believes that some changes can be made in the interest of both economy and efficiency. In a report made today he discusses the free textbook and the uniform textbook regulations.

Free textbooks, he points out, are provided by districts in most states, whereas in Texas payment comes from the State Treasury. Even in California where the state prints its own elementary texts at state expense, payment for high school texts is left to the district. But there is no disposition on the part of Texas to make this change, he thinks, so he suggests some ways in which considerable can be saved the state.

One saving can come through a modification of the law in the matter of contracts. This is through allowing newly adopted texts to take their places gradually, replacing worn-out texts of their predecessors as they need to be destroyed. This would save wholesale destruction of books that are yet usable.

Short-time contracts might make another great saving. This would mean save wholesale destruction of books that are yet usable.

Shorttime contracts might make another great saving. This would mean the making of a temporary contract to terminate after a trial of the text in actual teaching had been made and satisfaction or dissatisfaction determined. If there was general satisfaction ,a long-time contract would be made. The textbook Commission has this privilege under present stipulations of the law.

Care of textbooks would mean another saving, and this could be insured by taking the value of the books out of the total apportionment of the given district or county, and so notifying the people of that unit. This responsibility placed on the unit has been found to effect a saving in other states.

Less rigid uniformity is recommended by Dr. Works in choice of textbooks for use in high schools. He suggests that the list of the particular books include several alternatives and that choice of particular books be left to local authorities. High school inspectors from the State Department, would in that case he points out, be instructed to give equal recognition to all books on the approved list.

Separate texts should be adopted for Junior High Schools, also, as the books now prescribed for the prevailing type of sixth and seventh grades are not suitable for the junior high school, which is a new type of organization. The present arrangement, according to Dr. Works, is a serious handicap to the reconstruction of curricula of the upper elementary grades. Further, there must be more freedom in choice of texts for special schools, such as those in which Mexican or other foreign elements prevail.

Trial of texts to determine whether or not they are satisfactory should be considered in construction of curricula also, as well as for the sake of economy through short-time contracts. The state should be canvassed to see if texts are proving satisfactory or not.

The public should be kept informed of every move and contemplated action of the Textbook Commission, says the Director. Not only should people know that there is to be a change, but they should be told the reasons for the change, and should be given a general review of the text book situation regularly through the public press and otherwise.

MRS. W. F. CAPERS DIES FOLLOWING TRAGEDY AT CURRIE

One is dead and three lie critically ill at the Brown Hospital as a result of burns sustained in a gas explosion in the home of W. F. Capers, on the Snowden-McSweeney-Longbotham lease three miles north of Wortham, near Currie.

It is reported that Mrs. W. F. Capers arose at six thirty o'clock Tuesday morning and went to the kitchen to light the stove in order to cook breakfast. During the night the house had become filled with gas which was unnoticed by the occupants and upon striking the match the house became enveloped in flames, completely destroying the home and its contents. W. F. Capers age 28 years, Mrs. W. F. Capers, age 25, and their two small children, Gordon, age 7 and Marita, age 4, were seriously burned. They were all brought to Brown Hospital here for medical attention.

Mrs. Capers died at one o'clock Tuesday afternoon, and the other three victims of the explosion are in a very serious condition. Mr. and Mrs. Capers were from Ranger, Texas. The remains are being held at the J. I. Riddle Undertaking Parlors pending arrival of relatives from Ranger.

Davis Criticises Failure To Act On Sugar Tariff Bill

By PAUL R. MALLON
United Press Staff Correspondent.

WITH DAVIS EN ROUTE TO LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 21.—Moving up through Southern Kentucky the final stage of his campaign, John W. Davis today severely criticized President Coolidge for his failure to act on the sugar rates in the tariff bill.

In his typical mild-manner Davis by inference accused the President of playing politics with every American dinner table.

Concluding an argument that the chief executive should have lowered the cost of sugar to the public by ordering a lower tariff on imports, the democratic nominee said: "Which looks to me as if there was something about a presidential election that had a peculiarly abortive effect upon the judicial process.

Davis pointed out that 18 months ago the tariff commission proceeded "under great public pressure" to investigate the sugar rates. On July 31 he added. the report of the commission advocating a reduction was given to Mr. Coolidge. Now the word has come to him, he said, that the chairman of the tariff commission has been called upon by the President to furnish more data so that the decision will be postponed until after election.

The democratic nominee has taken on new life following the wind-up of his Tennessee campaign in Nashville last night. His intimate friends say he delivered there the best speech of his tour—a warning to business men that "they cannot stamp out radicalism by jumping into the arms of reaction." In classical English he portrayed his opposition to government ownership of railroads and other La Follette proposals, at the same time weaving his words into a plea to vote for the Democratic party as a safe medium between radicalism and conservatism.

Speeches are scheduled today in Bowling Green and Elizabethtown, Ky., before his arrival in Louisville at [illegible] p. m. for a night speech.

MARRIAGE DOES NOT EXCUSE ONE FROM SCHOOL

(By United Press)

CHICAGO, Oct. 21.—Boys and girls of school age cannot escape the school law through medium of matrimony, William Bodine, superintendent of compulsory education ruled in ordering a number of youthful brides back to their classes under pain of jail.

Where the husband is over school age, but the bride is of school age, the husband is responsible, Bodine said.

"I'm going to send these 'cradle robbers' to jail when they fail to send their wives to school," Bodine declared. "All brides under 16 must go to school. And that goes for husbands under 16."

Bodine was notified that dozens of Chicago girls of school age have been married in and around Chicago during the last year, and that nearly all of them are taking advantage of the situation to stay away from school.

The superintendent disclosed that several arrests have been made and prosecutions pending in the cases of "puppy love" marriages.

Bodine contemplated establishment of a checking system of couples granted licenses at several small Indiana and Michigan towns within a 100-mile radius of Chicago.

Three young couples are spending their honeymoons in the classrooms, Bodine disclosed.

Both Sides Claim English Elections

(By United Press)

LONDON, Oct. 21.—Despite opinion of political experts who predict the government's defeat in the next week's general election, Labor headquarters today estimated that Ramsay MacDonald's party will gain from 10 to 40 seats.

The Conservatives and Liberals have failed entirely to stir up the electorate by their attacks on the Russian treaties and the case of Editor Campbell of the Workers Weekly, the Laborites claim.

The popular mandate at the polls will be for Labor's opponents to "shut up and let the government carry on," MacDonald's headquarters assert.

Major Kirby Made Head of U. S. Money Plant

MAJOR WALLACE KIRBY

Major Wallace Kirby, U. S. A., has been named head of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing in Washington, which turns out all the paper money, stamps and bonds for the United States Government. The appointment follows a reorganization of the bureau after a bitter partisan fight of two years ago, when President Harding dismissed twenty-six officials without a hearing.

Walter Johnson Starring In The Old Home Town

(By United Press)

COFFEYVILLE, Kas., Oct. 21.—Walter Johnson, pitcher of the Washington Senators, came into another glorious victory yesterday at his home town, Coffeyville, Kas.

In return for the hero worship and the support of the local fans mowed down the Caney, Kas. battery with his speed and with a sacrifice hit in the ninth paved the way to victory.

Ten thousand people from all over Kansas were here yesterday to witness the game. It was one of the big days in the life of the Washington hurler.

Johnson leaves today for California where he is scheduled for several exhibition games in coast league towns. His last farewell in Coffeyville was a dinner given at one of the churches by the business men of the city.

TWO ADDITIONAL DEATHS TODAY AND MORE EXPECTED

(By United Press)

NORFOLK, Va., Oct. 21.—The mounting death toll caused by the explosion in the forward gun turret of the cruiser Trenton reached six today, and four others of the crew who were burned in the blast during target practice, were said at the naval hospital to be in a "desperate condition."

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—With four dead and eighteen injured the toll of the fatal explosion in the forward twin turret of the new scout cruiser Trenton off the Virginia Capes, the Navy Department today assembled a board of inquiry to determine the cause of this latest of a long list of peace time battleship catastrophes.

The explosion occurred just a few miles off Norfolk, Va. after the Trenton had taken up her position at the target practice drill grounds. First reports said it was caused by a "flare back" such as killed 48 men aboard the battleship Mississippi in the Pacific last spring, but later dispatches said the gun had not been fired and that the cause had not been determined.

The dead and injured were taken off the Trenton at Norfolk last night by speed boats from the naval hospital there and the injured were rushed to the hospital, some so seriously burned that further deaths were feared at the hospital today.

Naval experts here today believed the fatal blast was due to an explosion of powder in the turret.

Three of the men were killed outright by the blast. One was drowned when the access door in the rear of the turret was opened and four men fell overboard because the swing of the turret brought it back over the side of the vessel.

The Trenton put about immediately after the accident and rushed at full speed to Norfolk to discharge the injured.

Admiral Eberele chief of naval operations at once dispatched a message of sympathy to Admiral McCully, commander of the scouting fleet when he was informed of the disaster.

The Trenton is one of the newest types of vessels in the navy, the scout cruisers and had just completed her shake down cruise after being commissioned in the course of which she went to Busaire, Persia and brought the body of Major Robert W. Imbrie, murdered American Consul at Teheran to Washington for burial.

The accident recalls the catastrophe aboard the U. S. S. Mississippi off San Pedro on June 13 when 48 men were killed in a gun explosion.

WOULDN'T MIND PAPA

Mr. Wilbur, the secretary of the navy, has written a delightful series of bed-time stories on bears. One is entitled, "The-Little-Cub-Bear—That Would-Not-Mind-His-Papa." This may not have been so intended but the title applies perfectly to Teddy the Second, who's now sloshing around in his father's big boots.

President Roosevelt above all things took pride in his advocacy of preserving the natural reserves and strengthening the navy. His son, as assistant secretary of the navy, had fine opportunity to follow his father. He might have felt "called to the kingdom" at the time to carry forward thes two aims of his able father. Instead he toted to the White House the order that gave the naval petroleum reserves away to exploiters. He got nothing for himself, but his brother's salary was increased from $5000 to $15,000. Next, he was representative of the navy in the disarmament conference. He stood mute while Hughes consented to the destruction of the navy's strength and let it be made a poor second.

He is surely the "Little-cub-bear-who-would-not-mind-his-papa." Certainly he acted exactly in an opposite direction to all his father's teachings.

HUSBAND AND WIFE CANDIDATES FOR SAME JOB ON RIVAL TICKETS

(By International News Service.)

PERRYVILLE, Mo., Oct. 21.—Perhaps the first contest of its kind in the United States is the race this year in Wayne County, Missouri, between a man and his wife as candidates for the same office on opposite tickets.

F. C. Yates, an undertaker of Piedmont, Mo., was nominated at the primary election on the Democratic ticket for Coroner, and then the Republican County Committee placed Mrs. Yates on the Republican ticket for the same office.

Some think the case a case of "heads I win, tales you lose!" But Yates is trying hard to win, supplying the gold-banded cigars to the boys and greeting the ladies cordially wherever he meets them.

Mrs. Yates is not letting grass grow under her feet, either.

BIG TENT REVIVAL GETS OFF TO GOOD START IN MEXIA

The greatest need of Mexia is Prayer said Rev. Joe Jeffers, pastor of the First Baptist Church, engaged in a two weeks revival in the big tent at the corner of Main and Paris.

A large Monday night crowd filled practically every seat available and more seats and chairs will be provided in order to accommodate larger numbers.

The big tent is one of the largest ever secured for a revival and will take care of 3,000.

The pastor who is doing the preaching announced his text Monday night for the coming several nights and a meeting was called at 10:00 o'clock Tuesday morning to make arrangements for the two week's meeting.

Cards advertising "Big Tent Revival" are to be seen now on every hand on automobiles owned by people interested in the success of the affair.

Eleven additions were received Sunday and one addition Monday night, giving a splendid start and one quite encouraging.

Mash Notes Bane Of Round World Fliers Existence

By CARL L. TURNER,
International News Service Staff Corresondent.

ILBUR WRIGHT FIELD, DAYTON, O., Oct. 21.—"Mash letters" are becoming the very bane of the existence of the six 'round the world fliers. Postal clerks say their mail is as heavy as that of Hollywood's finest.

Letters from all parts of the world, but particularly from American flappers, are addressed to the Magellans of the air. And, to use the words of the aviators, some of them are "screamingly funny."

None of the air explorers is married. That was one of the conditions that led to their selection for the long, hazardous journey through unblazed airways.

But the American flapper, or any other, for that matter, will have to continue through life without the much-sought autograph of any of the gallant world fliers. Only letters from school children will be answered. But every child who writes them will receive a personal reply from one of the six.

Incidentally, the globe encircling pilots have caused it to be announced they are "fed up" on chicken—and this for city fathers or society matrons who may be contemplating a banquet in their honor.

Lieutenants Lowell Smith, Erik Nelson, Leigh Wade, Leslie Arnold, Henry Ogden and Jack Harding, Jr., have been feted at banquets in almost every town they have visited since their return to American soil. And almost invariably, they say, chicken has featured the menu.

When the six motored to Columbus to receive the official welcome and congratulations of the people of Ohio, they again were honored with a banquet. As a waiter appeared at the aviators' table it was noticed their faces turned unusually bright—even that of "Smilling" Jack Harding.

"We were joyous not because our hunger was about to be quited," one of the fliers explained after the dinner, "but because the ment was beefsteak, not chicken."

It will be some time, too, before the 'round the world airmen roll their planes out of the hanger for a pleasure spin, they said.

"No one who has traveled as far as we have in the air," said Lieutenant Leigh Wade, "has had his fill of flying for a while."

The fliers evidenced the truth of this statement when they elected to come here from Seattle by rail. Also they visited neighboring towns by auto.

Riding in a motor car for any reasonably long distance with the world fliers, however, is not always the fastest way of arriving at the journey's end. They have developed such keen sense of hearing that even a slight "rough" in the motor may cause them to hold up the party while they thoroughly inspect the engine.

They beg to be excused for this eccentricity because, they say, an aviator never rides behind a balky motor when he can avoid it. A fifteen-minute stop was made between Dayton and Columbus to change oil in the car driven by Lieutenant Lowell Smith. The engine had "coughed." But the fliers arrived safely.

OLD DOBBIN LEADS DRY SLEUTHS TO RUM HAUNT

(By International News Service.)

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Oct. 21.—Old Dobbin has been deputized as a prohibition agent.

When dry officials spied a wary-eyed individual driving a horse attached to a spring wagon down a narrow, wooded lane, they had a hunch.

After removing several thirty-gallon judgs of moonshine, they gave old Dobbin "his head." He went straight home, of course, and there another arrest was made and two stills confiscated.

"Now I know what 'horse sense' is," said one dry agent.

Republican Women Leaders Drawing Plans For Getting Out A Record Vote For Coolidge And Dawes In November

After women secured the long-denied right of suffrage, there were some who thought they would organize in a great group and use their power as an independent unit. The belief was unfounded. Experience has shown that the new power is being exercised through the existing political parties.

The picture above shows a group of prominent Republican women leaders conferring in New York headquarters of the Republican National Committee. Seated at the end of the table is Mrs. [illegible] Hert of Tennessee, [illegible] of the Republican National Committee, who is in command of the activities of the army of women throughout the United States working for the success of President Coolidge and Gen Dawes.

With but one exception all of these women political leaders are members for their states of the Republican National Committee. Seated at the table, farthest away from Mrs Hert, is Mrs J G. M. Glessner, representing New Hampshire, vice-president of the Society of Colonial Dames in her state She was state chairman of ways and means in the Harding-Coolidge campaign four years ago

Seated next to her is Mrs Charles Sumner Bird, of Massachusetts Mrs Bird was president of the Massachusetts Woman Suffrage Association when the suffrage amendment to the Constitution was passed She then organized the Republican women of her state and was chairman of the women's division of the Republican State Committee throughout the 1920 campaign President Harding appointed her to represent the eastern states on the advisory council during the Conference for the Limitations of Armaments. She founded the Women's Republican Club of Massachusetts and was its first president.

Next to Mrs. Bird is Mrs. Charles Steedman of Rhode Island, a daughter of Henry Lippitt, governor of Rhode Island from 1875 to 1877. She headed the American Red Cross in Providence during the World War, and was a member of the first Republican Women's State Committee. Mrs. Steedman is a member of the Society of Colonial Dames.

Seated on the other side of Mrs Hert is Mrs Charles H Sabin, the daughter of Paul Morton, Secretary of the Navy in the Roosevelt cabinet, and wife of the well known banker of New York. Mrs. Sabin is president of the Women's National Republican Club of New York City, and was a delegate-at-large to the convention which named Coolidge and Dawes.

Standing in front of the pillar is Mrs J B Russ, of Connecticut president of the Connecticut unit of Coolidge Women's Clubs of America. Standing immediately behind Mrs. Hert is Mrs. W. Bladen Lowndes, of Maryland She was chairman of the Liberty Loan and War Savings Committee of Howard County and a member of the National Council o. Defense during the war. She was chairman also of the War Savings Campaign in Baltimore, which is her home. Her husband is a son of the late Governor Lloyd Lowndes of Maryland. Behind Mrs. Sabin stands Mrs Charlotte Farrar of New York City, Republican woman leader of the Tenth Assembly District. She is now and was four years ago an active worker at New York City headquarters She is the only one of those pictured above who is not a National Committeewoman.

SUCCESS BY SACRIFICE ONE OF THRIFT BENEFITS

By S. W. STRAUS,
President American Society for Thrift

A YOUNG man who has made rapid advancement in the business world, and, from every standpoint of good citizenship and personal progress, is an outstanding success, recently was asked to outline the principles which have served for his guidance. His written reply was as follows:

S. W. STRAUS

"I believe in doing more than I am paid to do, because I believe that it will pay me in the long run, and that I can prove to be of greater value to myself and to my friends. If necessary, I will make sacrifices. I have made them in the past, and I expect to make them in the future. I do not believe any man can really succeed who is not willing to make sacrifices, and make them promptly and willingly when they are called for."

Here is one of the best lessons in thrift ever uttered. It would be well if all young men and young women could read it carefully and apply it personally.

It is a lesson in thrift because it teaches success through sacrifice

All real success must stand on the solid foundation of sacrifice.

This is true in every walk of life and with equal truth it may be said that the practices of thrift are of greatest value because of the strength of character, will-power and complete self-mastery which they impart.

The employee who is willing to make the sacrifice of doing more than he is paid to do—the man or woman who saves at the sacrifice of temporary pleasures, can rest assured they are on the high road to success

To all those who are imbued with the true thrift spirit, sacrifices are but blessings in disguise.

The campaign will wind up with a hugh meeting in Ulster Hall in this city.

At all meetings a resolution reaffirming Ulster's determination to stand by the Government of Ireland Act of 1920—in which the six-county area now in dispute was given to Ulster—is being passed.

Farmers Know Good Thing When See It

COLLEGE STATION, Texas, October 21.—Farmers of Texas are taking advantage of the opportunity to secure cheap explosives for digging ditches, blasting stumps, quarrying stone and doing other work on the farm from the stocks of surplus wartime supply now being distributed by the United States Department of Agriculture through the various state agricultural colleges. The Extension Service of the A. & M. College of Texas is now preparing to order out the second car of the explosive which has been purchased in recent months by Texas farmers through the Extension farm agents.

The first car which came into the state went to Lamar county farmers and the second will go to Angelina county. Extension agents of other counties are offering to receive orders from farmers within their respective territories who desire to take advantage of the cheap material. There is no charge made for explosive or Pyrotol by government, the congress having appropriated the surplus war stocks to the farmers free, but there was no appropriation made for freight charges and none for putting the powder up in cartridge form for convenient use. The cost to the Texas farmer when bought in the carload lots through the Extension farm agents is about $11.50 a hundred pounds, $6 being for the cost of placing in cartridges and the remainder for freight. Express and local freight shipment costs are prohibitive. Only by pooling their purchases and securing in carload lots can the farmer profit very much. No one individual can secure more than 1,000 pounds.

BURGLARS GET $2 STAMPS IN 5-AND-10-CENT STORE

WHEELING, W. Va., Oct. 21.—Police here maintain that some burglars have a well-developed sense of humor.

Recently robbers entered a 5-and-10-cent store and, in trying to open the safe, broke the combination. They had to content themselves with two dollars' worth of stamps taken from a drawer.

In investigating police found a note on top of the safe.

"Next time," it said, "kindly leave the combination within easy reach and the safe will escape injury. Regretfully yours.

THE REVIVAL ON McKINNEY STREET

Meeting at McKinney Auditorium is drawing large crowds. Last night (Monday night) the auditorium was almost full to every seat. Evangelist Carter is preaching the gospel in such a wonderful, and powerful manner that God is being glorified in every way, and it is having its effects, on his hearers. At the close of his sermon in his powerful discription, of the death, of our master, there were 5 additions to the church.

Evangelist Carter knows the Bible, he never opens the book, but always tells his congregation where he is reading. Also urges them to watch him, closely, and correct him if he makes a mistake.

You are invited to hear him. The singing is the very best, singing alone, is what we have.

ALONG THE SIDE LINES

PRINCETON. — Captain Stout, Gibson, McMillan and Dinamore returned to the Tiger line-up yesterday in time for the hardest Monday practice of the year, in preparation for the Notre Dame game Saturday.

NEW HAVEN.—A long lecture on the individual faults of the players who were held to a tie score by Dartmouth took up most of yesterday's practice for the Eli, followed by a short signal drill.

CAMBRIDGE.—With the exception of Stafford and Howe, quarterback and fullback, the varsity had a rest yesterday, most of them nursing minor bruises sustained in the Holy Cross game. The drill for the others consisted of only a light signal practice and a long drill for the drop kickers.

DALLAS.—The demand recently placed upon the public utilities of Dallas to care for the great crowds attending the State Fair of Texas illustrates the peak loads that such companies must always be ready to handle. The transportation of double the normal number of street car passengers and the handling of heavy increases in electric light and telephone business was accomplished through such preparedness.

FOR RENT—Two or three room apartment, all modern conveniences. In private home. Reasonable rent. 411 S. Kaufman. 21-L-3

ANATOLE FRANCE, GREATEST OF MODERN FRENCH WRITERS, WAS PERVERSE IN EVERY ACT

(By International News Service.)

PARIS, Oct. 21.—When, a few years ago, a high dignitary of the Catholic Church called upon M. Anatole France to inform him that his books had been placed on the Index by the Vatican, and that Catholics the world over had been forbidden to read them, he added:

"M. France, I have never read your books myself."

Anatole France, who was then 75, bowed low to his caller.

"Sir," he said, "permit me to say I have never read your Ten Commandments myself."

Such was Anatole France, greatest of all modern Frenche writers and one of the world's keenest satirists of all times.

Antole France's life can be summed up in one word: Perversity!

France Was Perverse.

Anatole France was perverse. He seemed always to be at cross purposes with the world. He had no morals, and he never sought to hide the fact. He was elected to the French Academy of Immortals, though he was forever berating it. He announced himself a Communist, but later declared he was a Communist no more. He was no hypocrite. When he was through he said so.

When all France was denouncing Captain Dreyfus and demanding that he be kept for life on Devil's Island, off the coast of French Guinea, Anatole France stood shoulder to shoulder with Emile Zola to demand exoneration of the innocent officer in the "Affaire."

Anatole France, whose real name was Jacques Anatole Thibault, was born April 16, 1844, the son of a bookseller, of Paris, and was consequently eighty years old at the time of his death.

He was educated at Stanislaus College, and produced his first really successful book, "The Crime of Sylvester Bonnard," when he was thirty-seven. Then, for nearly half a century, he was famous as a critic, essayist and novelist. He was a skeptic in religion, morals, politics, aesthetics and science. He was even skeptical, he admitted, of his own negations of the things of which he was skeptical.

Perversity was Anatole France's life.

Hated War, But Fought.

Forced as a conscript to fight thru the Franco-Prussian War in 1870, he hated war with a bitterness that was apparent in all his works. But the day war was declared against the Central Powers in 1914, Anatole France demanded that he be enlisted as a private soldier, and during that war he wrote some of the most stirring appeals to the army to stand fast. He declared it would be a crime against civilization to end the war until the Central Powers had been crushed.

Yet as soon as war ended, we find Anatole France denouncing the French Government for continued "militarism," declaring the Versailles Treaty "a crime that would cause untold wars in future."

Ten years ago M. France was reported engaged to marry Mlle. Brindeau, an actress, whom he met while returning to France from a trip to Buenos Aires. The name of Mme. Caillovet was mentioned in connection with the estrangement, it being reported that the author had been helped by her during his early struggles for recognition as a writer.

Four years ago, at the age of seventy-six, he married Mlle. Emma la Prevotte, more than forty years his junior, who had been his housekeeper for years. At that time he declared he "was starting life anew."

Was A Wealthy Man.

In 1921 Anatole France was awarded the $40,000 Nobel Prize for Literature. He was a wealthy man possessed of a marvelously beautiful estate near Tours, to which he often fled during the Summer invasion of American tourists to his beloved Paris, because they importuned him so much for audiences.

It was Anatole France's boast that he had never read the works of any of his contemporaries. He declared he lived in their times and already knew their ideas. His reading was entirely the books of those men or women who had moulded or echoed the thoughts of times gone by.

Among his most famous works were: "A Study of Alfred de Vigny," 1868; a volume of verse, "Les Poemes Dores," 1873; "Les Noces Corinthiennes," 1876; "Locaste et le Chat Maigre," 1879; "The Crime of Sylvester Bonnard," 1881; "Les Desirs de Jean Servien," 1882; "Le Livre de Mon Ami," 1885; "Nos Enfants," 1886; "Balthazar," 1889; "Thais" (his most famous work), 1890; and scores of others.

His book, "The Revolt of the Angels," produced in 1914, was perhaps the most controversial of all the remarkable writings of this most remarkable man.

DALLAS.—Many thousand children of school age in Texas are this month competing in the better home lighting essay contest sponsored by the electrical industry. There are approximately seven thousand contestants in Dallas.

AS TIME PASSES.

Can you remember back to the days when the printed page was merely an uninteresting expanse o fwhite paper made up of black smudges—the days before you learned to read? Some of us can, some can't. It depends on the length of that backward journey along the memory route.

But if you had to give an estimate of the number of words you have read since your first began to pick out letters and words and phrases, your estimate would be too low, unless it went into millions and trillions.

Millions of words read at about fourteen inches from your eyes when man's normal range of vision is forty feet. Can you wonder that at times your eyes have rebelled—have sought artificial means to keep up with the artificial civilization in which we live?

It isn't enough to answer that you see perfectly well. We have no basis of comparison of what we see. In this age of rush and strain eye glasses have filled man's need and he goes on to greater achievements.

FORT WORTH.—One of the features of the work of the Northern Texas Traction company that counted in the recent award of the Coffin Medal for the year was the development of real estate along the lines of the company's transportation system. The award was won in competition with a number of electric tarnsportation companies over the country.

ABILENE.—Seven miles of streets in this city have just been equipped with modern ornamental lighting standards. It was the largest order ever placed for the type of illuminating units employed.

HOUSTON.—The new president of the American Gas Association, elected this month at the annual convention, is H. C. Abell, president of the National Power and Light Company, well known in Texas.

THE CREATIVE IMPULSE

Pessimistic critics of modern industry who are forever harping about the mechanical processes making man a mere automation and destroying his "creative impulse" arouse the indignation of one champion of the present day. He admits that a man may get tired of pushing a button or some other mechanical operation, but argues that the greater leisure which modern industry permits compared with the supposed idyllic days when each cobbler made a complete pair of shoes affords much greater opportunity for mental development and the creative impulse of thought.

It is conceivable that the cobbler often became as weary as his modern successor in the factory who does but one piece of work hour after hour. And when the long day's work was done the cobbler had no such opportunities for recreation enjoyment or development as his twentieth century substitute. To any of the idealist who look for the good old days and the good old simple ways pause to imagine how they would like to get along without the comforts and conveniences that mechanical production alone brings within their reach?

A LONG, COLD WINTER?

B—r—r—r! Shut that door! Yakima Indians in the Northwest predict a long, cold, hard winter because there never were so many flies, bugs, bees, wasps, and yellow jackets as during this summer. The tribal sages say this is a sure sign. Ever notice how these weather oracles invarially report "sure signs", none of the indications or probablys that the official weather man hides behind at times.

But to resume, the Yakima medicine men say that these insects have a hunch on the weather long in advance of humans, and the reason they have been so numerous this summer is because they are laying in a specially big hoard of provender for the winter, which they foresee will start early and stay late.

Maybe the long, cold winter is going to be localized among the Yakima's. Let's hope so, anyway.

But scientists say we are due in 1925 for a heatless summer.

It's a sad world, and the last summer freckles usually hang over to greet the first winter chilblains.

$25,000 Tub For Paris Beauty

MLLE BARRY, famous Parisian beauty, insists on taking her equally famous $25 000 gold encrusted bathtub with her on all her journeys It's quite a contrast to the first bathtub in this country made in 1842 by Adam Thompson of Cincinnati a seven by four foot tub lined with sheet lead and weighing nearly a ton When news of the tub spread, agitators predicted all sorts of dire illnesses for foolish mortals who were so reckless as to bathe in tubs, especially in the winter

Now, less than a century later, even the humblest homes boast of some kind of tub and the coldest weather is no deterrent to the accustomed bath With an unlimited supply of water merely on the turning of the tap, and a bar of pure, white, Ivory soap, every American is as well equipped from the standpoint of cleanliness as this extravagant Parisian beauty with her $25 000 bath tub

STRAIGHT TALKS WITH AUNT EMMY

ON NOT GETTING FLATTERED

'Somehow, Aunt Emmy, it scares me when I read of all the ways people lose their money in fake stock and bond transactions How can you know who is honest and what stocks and bonds are safe to buy?' queried Jane.

'It is easy enough if people only wouldn't be so impatient," replied Aunt Emmy. 'There is never any need for haste in investing. It's far better to take a little time to find out the character of the securities offered and of the person offering them The buying of securities was greatly stimulated by the Liberty Loans. Before Uncle Sam offered Liberty bonds only about 300 000 people in the United States owned securities Now millions of people are buying stocks and bonds.

"Of course the unscrupulous security vendors have taken advantage of the public's new education to investments All sorts of bad and questionable securities are being offered for sale. Naturally the majority of the people are not rich so when a man sets out to sell bonds or stocks through the country he must be prepared to sell in small quantities. 'Baby bonds,' $100 bonds that is, are popular If the baby bonds are sound they are as good an investment as any. But before you buy bonds of any kind get good advice

'Be especially careful about doorstep salesmen A bond house that floods the country with salesmen is put to great expense They can't send salesmen all over the United States for nothing, so when a salesman comes to sell you bonds it is important to investigate the quality of the bond he is selling Your bank will give information about investment houses and investments, and if you follow the bank's advice you will not lose your money.

"Another thing to be looked upon with suspicion,' continued Aunt Emmy, "is the man who tries to sell you securities over the telephone. Such men will call up some woman living in the country and say they are calling at the suggestion of a friend They suggest that she buy such and such a bond that is selling at such and such a price. They ask the woman to hold the wire a moment, then say the price of the bond has gone up a point. Of course these men always call on the long distance 'phone from some large city. Poor little Mrs. Hackwoods is so thrilled at this touch with the great world of finance that she buys the bond, only to find out her error later. It's a safe bet that she wouldn't buy sheets and pillow cases over the 'phone from a perfect stranger, but bonds, yes!"

"I see, Aunty," said Jane, "you should always know whom you're dealing with and not get excited and rush into anything just because it sounds flattering and thrilling."

"Exactly," said Aunt Emmy.—Anne B. Aymes.

Ferocious Rabbit Blinded by Glare, Nearly Kills Girl

(By International News Service.)

O'NEILL, Neb., Oct. 21.—Miss Teresa Hayden, member of the local high school, was the victim recently of the strangest accident ever recorded here.

She was driving her car on the State highway at night, when a big jackrabbit, blinded by the lights of the automobile, jumped through the windshield of the car. So terrific was the rabbit's impact that two of Miss Hayden's teeth were knocked out and her face severely cut.

The jackrabbit was killed in the collision.

ADVOCATE SEED CORN TEST

The Iowa Bankers Association sent out a bulletin to its members urging the bankers to have the farmer test his seed corn this year because of the heavy damage done to corn last year by dry rot. Enclosed was a letter from a farm crops man at Iowa State College explaining the situation. Germination tests on 32,000 ears of representative seed corn from all sections of the state showed that only about 80 per cent were fit for seed purposes, the rest being either weak or dead. "Dry rot is very prevalent in the seed corn this year and is responsible for the low vitality of a good deal of seed corn. In a great many cases ears may look bright and free from disease but kernels from these ears will show the presence of dry rot mold when germinating in the tester."

Wife Interfered With His Bath; Wants Divorce

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 21.—Charging his wife with causing him extreme mental suffering by continually interfering with his weekly bath, Andrew Hanson has filed suit for divorce here against Blenda G. Hanson.

Hanson stated in his complaint it always has been his custom to take a bath every week, but in the last three years he declared his wife would do all in her power to prevent him. She would turn off the heater and refuse him the use of hot water and soap, according to the complaint.

Chicago-Florida Road Opens 15th

By A. E. GARVIN,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

CHICAGO, Oct. 21.—The Dixie Highway, Route A, from Chicago to Florida, will be opened officially November 15, according to Charley O. Connor, engineer in charge of construction.

The highway cuts through the Mason-Dixon line and enables motorists to save approximately 1,000 miles of travel en route from Chicago to Florida.

The construction of the important connecting stretches of road through hitherto impassable mountain regions of the South is said to be the most extensive piece of co-operative highway construction and financing in the history of American roads. The funds for the construction in those counties which could not finance the road were raised by civic clubs in Kentucky, Tennessee and North Carolina, by a gasoline tax agreed to by owners of gasoline stations along the route of the highway, and by contributions from various civic and motor associations and individuals in the cities of Chicago, Detroit and Dayton.

Some of the South's most picturesque and historic points are reached and passed through by the highway, and Chicagoans and other Northerners along the route may now tour these places over improved roads that have been hitherto impassable mountain paths. Such places as the famous Blue Grass stock farms of Kentucky, spots made famous in the Revolutionary and Civil wars; the Vanderbilt estates, where the handicraft in woodwork and textiles has attracted interest all over the world, and other features of the Cumberland and Blue Ridge Mountain country.

SPORTLIGHTS.

After the smoke of the week-end big ten battles had cleared, only five of the eight Southwestern Conference teams remain undefeated, in their own organization.

S. M. U. the 1923 champs, T. C. U. and the Texas Aggies have all gone through so far without defeat. While Rice and Baylor are both loosers to outside clubs. The Texas Aggies are the only contenders who have not been scored on this season.

The three most formidable contenders for the championship ile between S. M. U. Baylor and Texas A. & M. Of these three the Aggies have the best record. It is not likely that the Horned Frogs or the Rice Owls will hang on very long.

Next Saturday at the State Fair grounds one of the strongest contenders will be eliminated when S. M. U. and the Texas Aggies clash. Although it is possible for a defeated team to win the championship, it seldom the case.

S. M. U. has yet to face two teams with better material than was put on the field by Coach Doc Stewart last week in the Texas Aggies and Baylor by defeating these two strong elevens the Mustangs will have almost clear sailing to duplicate last year's feto.

It was Texas's first defeat at the hand of a Southwestern Conference team in three year. Possibly the team is just off for a bad start and will come into their own when they play Florida at Austin on next Saturday.

The Italy High School which was classed as one of the contenders of District B Championship had their hopes shattered last week when they were defeated by Ennis to the tune of 13 to 6. It will be remembered that the Mexia-Ennis score was 33 to 0 in favor of the Black Cats.

The Mexia Black Cats so far have not scheduled a game for next Friday Oct 24th.

Westminster had a week of rest and will go to Rusk next Friday to meet Rusk College for their first game in two weeks.

In the high school class looks like Itasca and Marlin will be in for the final count.

Florida has tied Georgia Tech this season and the Georgia boys have defeated Penn. State. Wonder if the Longhorns will trample the Alligators to death next Saturday at Austin.

Relentless Prosecution and Severe Punishment Will Check Crime Increase, Says E. A. St. John

Alarming Growth of Burglary and Embezzlement calls for Greater Cooperative Effort.

"FINANCIAL crimes have increased alarmingly since 1913," says E. A. St. John, president of the National Surety Company of New York.

"Losses paid by a group of surety and burglary insurance companies in 1918 totaled $3,028,789. These same companies in 1923 paid losses of $20,912,706, and will pay as much, or more, in 1924. Our own share in 1923 was $7,917,051—the largest of any single company. In 35 years we have paid in losses $40,000,000. If the crime wave is to be checked employers, public prosecutors and magistrates must join in a campaign for relentless prosecution of the criminal and severer prison sentences.

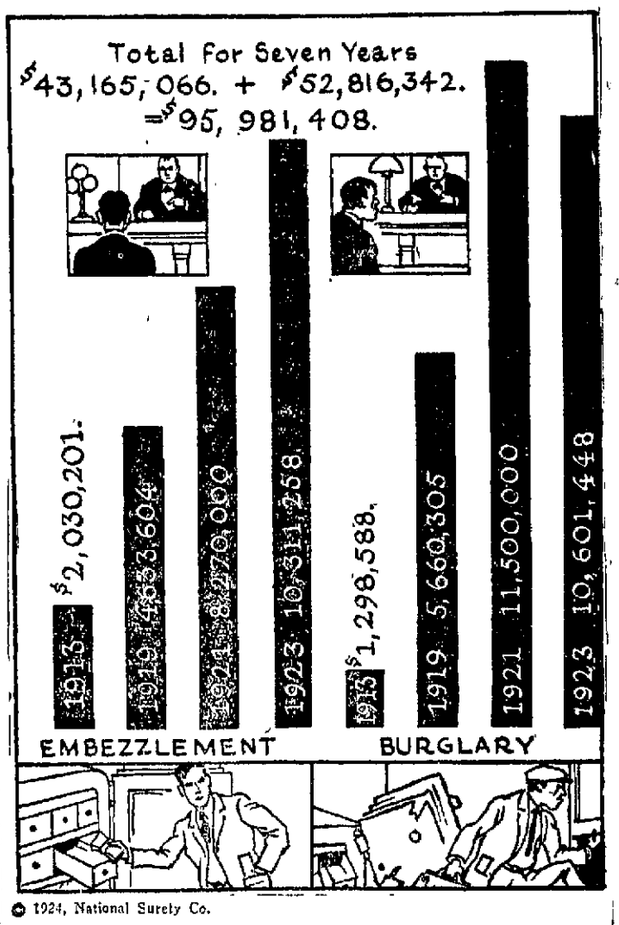
"Financial and commercial institutions must increase protection of messengers and funds; must be more careful in selecting new employes; must watch even old and trusted employes and install better systems of accounts and checking.

"Citizens and public officials must insist upon honesty courses in the public schools.

"Magistrates must increase respect for the law by imposing more severe sentences.

"Surety companies must seek to punish more severely the unfaithful handed man—they should do, as this company has done—make the punishment fit the crime

"While these measures will not end burglary and embezzlement they will prevent their increase, and should greatly lessen the yearly loss."



The alarming increase in financial crime from 1913 to 1923.

Sinking Ship Blasts Expedition to Arctiv

(By International News Service.)

LONDON, Oct. 21.—A sinking ship, towed into port at Scarborough, on the northeast coast of England, recently, marked the end of an ill-fated Arctic expedition. The ship was the Heltar, and the expedition was led by Grettler Algarsson, a young Icelander.

Early in May of this year the Heltar, a converted trawler, was fitted out for an expedition to explore unknown parts of the Arctic as a prelude to an expedition to the North Pole next year. Algarsson was only 32 years of age, while the members of his small crew were all young Englishmen.

The voyage began July 16, but four days later, when within 100 miles of the Norwegian coast, the ship sprang a leak and it was only with difficulty she reached dock. Temporary repairs were effected, but the expedition was abandoned.

On her way back to Scarborough she again began to leak, and it was only with the help of tug-boats that she was able to reach her berth.

Wants Mother Jailed For Keeping Her Son

(By International News Service.)

NEWARK, N. J. Oct. 21.—Is it contempt of court for a mother to refuse to share the custody of her five-year-old son with its father?

Vice-Chancellor Backes will decide soon, on motion of Milton Irvine, of South Amboy, who alleges his wife refused to give up the child, as she had agreed to do under a separation agreement signed two years ago.

20-WATT RADIO SET SENDS 6,000 MILES

(By International News Service.)

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 21.—Establishing what was said to be a new world's record for broadcasting with a twenty-watt radio set, W. B. Magner of Los Angeles, has claimed the American Relay League trophy for long-distance messaging. Magner received a cablegram from F. Dillon Dell, of Shag's Valley Station, Australia, 6,000 miles from here, acknowledging receipt of Magner's code message.

GLEAVES SAYS IT IS ONE MEDICINE THAT GIVES RESULTS — CITES PERSONAL EXPERIENCE.

"Tanlac is one medicine that gives results, and when I say that, I speak from experience," is the positive statement of J. H. Gleaves, popular Southern Pacific Ry. yard conductor, 2615 S. Oregon St., Dallas, Tex.

"Before taking Tanlac, I hadn't the spark of an appetite and my digestion and nerves were almost wrecked. At times I would get so dizzy I would nearly fall over and I was pretty nearly past going.

"But Tanlac built up my appetite and digestion, steadied my nerves and soon had me eating, sleeping, and working like a different man.

"Then, my 11 year old boy got to suffering from a liver disorder and a number of splotches came on his face. We thought he would have to stop school but Tanlac made his liver act right, cleared up his skin and left him feeling Ok. I can't say enough for Tanlac."

Full Lace Skirt Expresses Youth, Says Style Expert

CHICAGO—Tight fitted basques and full skirts are the debutante's delight, despite the reign of the tube gown, declared Mme. Crone a director of the Fashion Art League, at the league's annual style show here.

"The clever young girl with advanced ideas wants something that will set out her youthful advantages," said Mme. Crone. "While the straight line still is the strictly correct thing for all informal day wear, progressive young girls are wearing evening frocks with close basques and full, almost bouffant lace skirts. The tight basque and the flow of the draped lace skirt are so much more youthful than the silhouette.

"Chintz flowers cut out and appliqued on lace with edging of gold and silver thread is one of the season's novelties, christened Chic Chintz. The gown illustrated is a close basque with blue, lavender and pink chintz flowers on tan Zion lace. The foundation is flesh colored silver cloth trimmed with a ruching of French blue chiffon.

"Another striking gown, designed by Marge, was all over Zion silk lace in close fitted basque effect with festooned skirt and contrasting diamond shaped insets trimmed with rhinestones. Moni showed a debutante's dance frock with a severely close and plain satin bodice ornamented by a daring futuristic rose in ribbon applique. The skirt was Zion silk lace of the Chantilly type, almost circular in its fullness.

"These refreshingly new styles appeal to the young girl. Nothing could be in more charming contrast to a ball-roomful of straight line gowns than a few of these gay and slim young girlish basques and swirling skirts. For the girl who makes her own dresses the style is ideal and the different delightful novelties at her command this season invite her to the making of frocks that will express her personality."

Policeman Denies He Was Shot and Killed

(By International News Service.)

WHEELING, W. Va., Oct. 21.—The characteristic remark of the immortal Mark Twain that the report of his death was "greatly exaggerated" was echoed here today by Patrolman Harry Rice.

A Pittsburgh newspaper published an account of Rice's death, but the "victim" refused to believe it when he read the article.

Rice recently was shot and wounded by Dave Corbett, of Washington, D. C., who was sentenced to seven years imprisonment in the State Penitentiary for the crime. In publishing the story, the Pittsburgh newspaper stated Rice had been "killed."

Rice was swamped today with congratulations for his remarkable recovery by friends who had read of his "demise."

CREAM CLEARS A STUFFED-UP HEAD

If your nostrils are clogged and your head is stuffed because of nasty catarrh or a cold, apply a little pure, antiseptic cream into your nostrils. It penetrates through every air passage, soothing and healing swollen, inflamed membranes and you get instant relief.

Try this. Get a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm at any drug store. Your clogged nostrils open right up; your head is clear; no more hawking or snuffing. County fifty. All the stuffiness, dryness, struggling for breath is gone. You feel fine

Are you one of those who spends your earnings in another city or town? Don't you think it would be a pretty good idea to spend it with your home town people, the people who support your churches, schools, city government? Think it over!

A TUNIC FOR EVERY TASTE IS THE PARIS MESSAGE

THE tunic frock continues to dominate the mode, and understandably, for it is one of those rare fashions which is adaptable to all occasions and to all types. For there are tunics and tunics, from the ultra long and tight, to the equally ultra flounced and flaring.

But withal, the tunic mode is as varied as the genius of its sponsors. Lelong, whose opening occurred recently, showed, we are told, "a very good and simple afternoon frock with a tunic in black Drapella split at the sides and at the back and buttoned with a few big buttons. The panels and fourreau were bordered with silk braid. A narrow band of ermine round the neck gave a very young aspect to this pretty mode model. Quite often the dresses were made in two fabrics, one forming decorations on the other, or one used for the top and the other for the skirt, for example, stripes of ottoman on crepe Georgette, or a crepe tunic on a skirt in velours de laine."

For the more conservative woman, this tunic dress, whose beltlessness is relieved by the disposition of the trimming, and which concedes a slight draping over the hips, will greatly appeal. Its good style is apparent, and its appropriateness for afternoon wear, pleasingly evident.

The model shown, which was sent to us from Paris by the Cheney Style Service, was made in pale green crepe de chine, embroidered with bright green. The narrow band at the neck, and the underskirt are of Mirrolcrepe in the bright green. The dress would be also effective, and perhaps a little more practical, if carried out in the various rust or wood tones favored by Paris.

The use of the neckband continuing in a scarf effect has already been noted. It was a feature of the Jenny collection, according to word received from Henri Creange, and Patou, too, utilized this theme in many of his afternoon models.

Women Spending 85 Per Cent of Money in The U. S.

(By International News Service.)

CHICAGO, Oct. 21.—Who spends the money in the United States?

Women spend 85 per cent of it, answers Miss Mary L. Downes, High Chief Ranger of the Women's Catholic Order of Foresters, one of America's large fraternal societies operated both for and by women. The fair sex is becoming more and more the money investing half of the domestic sketch, the expert asserts.

AMERICANS REVIVE "PLUG" HAT FASHION IN LONDON

(By International News Service.)

LONDON, Oct. 21.—The "plug" hat, relic of a past generation in English social life, is again coming into favor.

Strange to relate, its revival is due in no small measure to the American "invasion" to England this Summer and Fall.

The visit of the American advertisers and the American Bar Association to England entailed a huge round of social activities. Many of the American visitors, under the impression that the "plug" hat was still universally worn here at all social functions, wore them on all occasions, with the result that English society followed.

Hatters report an increasing demand for the "plug," and state that it is definitely back to stay.

GOLDEN WATER WELL IS FILLED UP AGAIN

TOKYO, Oct. 21.—The mystery concerning the sudden drying up of the Golden Water Well, in the compound of the Imperial Palace, has been cleared up.

The well dried up early in August for the first time since the establishment of the old Edo Castle on that site, and was thought by experts to have some sinister foreboding, as the phenomenon could not be explained. Just recently it suddenly became productive again and now has its usual flow of clear, extremely cold water.

The sudden stoppage of its flow is accounted for now by the construction of another well in the palace compound.

Even this explanation, however, is not satisfactory to many, who think there is magic connected with the Golden Water Well. The latter is but fifty-five feet deep while the new one has a depth of 300 feet. Therefore, some authorities think there is no connection between the two and that the Golden Water Well gets its supply from an entirely different source.

DO YOU KNOW HOW TO STAND AND WALK CORRECTLY?

Only One Person in Any Fifty You Can See on a City Street Really Knows How to Walk, Say Experts.

One of the first things the army does after the new recruit has passed his physical examinations is to teach him to stand correctly. Unless he learned to do this he could neither bear up under the long, hard marches nor could he support the weight of his pack. It is just as necessary for the great civilian army to adopt a correct posture. The first step for civilians in learning a correct posture is to correct defects of the feet, and to wear proper shoes. Read this important article by Dr. William M. Scholl, noted foot orthopedist of Chicago; it has a message of helpfulness for everyone.

By DR. WM. M. SCHOLL.

Few persons realize how important it is to health to have a correct posture in standing and walking. An eminent orthopedic expert recently said only one person out of every fifty really knows how to walk. And I am inclined to believe there is a great deal of common sense in the statement.

When it does not actually indicate their existence, an incorrect posture often results in bodily ailments. In fact, you can sometimes give a good snap judgment of one's bodily condition by his walk. Of course, this is not a real test. Many healthy people stumble along as though they had one foot in the grave.

When the muscles that should hold the body erect are weak and relaxed, the body droops forward. When nervous energy is diminished by overwork, exhaustion, recent illness, worry to fatigue or other cause, the muscles of the back which, largely, pull the body into an upright position, fail to contract properly, because of insufficient nervous stimuli, and faulty posture is the result.

One who has been ill is surely not to be blamed if he does not walk with body upright, head thrown back, and with elastic step. But most cases of wrong posture such as you see everywhere are those of fairly healthy persons. Usually they can be readily corrected.

Digestive and abdominal disturbances, headaches, nervous instability, pulmonary troubles, and those of circulation, and most marked of all, foot troubles and fatigue out of all proportion to the effort of walking, are among unwelcome results that may follow an habitually wrong posture.

Not long ago an industrial commission studied how wrong posture reacts upon the health of employees. They found:

"The habits of posture that produce round shoulders and forward drooped head lessen the space in the chest for the lungs, and may inflict great injury to the organs within the abdominal cavity."

Continuing the report says: "The wide separation of ribs on the high shoulder side interferes with the entrance of tidal air, particularly on that side. In the case of a large number of persons having tuberculosis, this posture is the habitual one, and the disease first invaded the apex of the lung on the side of the high shoulder.

"A variety of conditions are active in producing a downward displacement of the organs. This bent forward posture, especially in individuals of a tall and slender build, is conducive to it. The normal folds and turns in the digestive tube are deepened by the folding inward of the wall of the abdomen on the belt line, and by the downward crowding that takes place."

It is impossible to maintain a correct posture for any length of time if one has weak or defective feet. The first step to encourage right posture is to correct remediable defects of the feet. Happily most static foot defects can be corrected without serious inconvenience. Artificial correction can be temporarily employed to restore misplaced bones to normal position. If the foot trouble is due to some systemic condition or disease, a physician should be called in. Next, the shoes should be built upon correct, orthopedic principles and correctly fitted. The stockings should not bind or cramp the feet.

Weak and defective feet are a frequent cause of wrong posture. It is probably not far from the mark to say that almost 90 per cent of the adult population has some form of foot defects or weaknesses of a serious or minor character.

Persons with ailing feet have difficulty in walking naturally. There is a tendency to avoid pressing upon the weak or afflicted region and to throw the body's weight elsewhere upon the foot. This may strain and distort other parts of the foot. No part of the human frame is subjected to such powerful mechanical forces as are the small bones of the foot. When this weight is improperly borne, the force is sufficient to distort any foot or shoe.

To sustain the body's weight properly, both our heels and the toes are meant to touch the ground (in other words, the long axis of the body should form a right angle with the sole. In this attitude only is the body's weight transmitted evenly to all weight-bearing portions of the foot.

In most cases, the body is held with least resistance to the law of gravity when a line from the base of the brain to the heel is perpendicular to the earth. This applies when the body is erect and still.

When the body is incorrectly held, muscular effort is required to prevent it from toppling forward, or back, or sideways. By elevating the heel of the foot, for example, with an extreme high heeled shoe the body is pitched forward, so that the center of the body gravity falls at a point forward of the foot. One who stands in that position for any length of time is compelled to bend backwards to maintain his equilibrium. The effort to keep erect may bring about certain compensatory changes in the body, such as: contraction, or shortening, of the calf muscles, weakness of the knee muscles, weakness of the front muscles controlling the knee; the knees are bent forward, the shoulders backward, and the abdomen forward, thus displacing some of the abdominal organs.

There may be an increase in the curve of the lower spine which predisposes to weakness of the pelvis and spinal column. Backaches, headaches, cramps in the calves, callosities under the ball of the foot are but a few of the possible results. High heels may cause weak ankles and be responsible for strains and sprains around the ankle joints.

Harmful results follow high heels more frequently when the change from low or flat heeled shoes to high heels is made suddenly. When high heels are adopted gradually from childhood to young womanhood the foot may have been "educated" to assume in a relaxed condition the position of the high heeled shoe.

People who stand upon their feet all day in the course of their employment, with little change in position, usually stand with feet slightly abducted (toes out). This tends to throw the weight toward the inner border of the foot. This posture strains some of the muscles and ligaments, while others remain comparatively inert, not actively contracting. The correct posture, of course, is feet straight ahead. Barbers, waiters in restaurants, mail carriers, policemen and others who are constantly upon their feet often develop a pronounced flat-foot condition. Some cities give special attention to the policemen's feet, with beneficial results.

Forcing the foot into narrow-toed and short shoes alters the shape of the foot and renders a graceful carriage impossible. The metatarsal arch at the ball of the foot may weaken, flattening out the foot, which, in turn, forces out the uppers of the shoe beyond the shoe sole.

The most common of all serious foot defects is the weak or depressed arch with flat foot as the impending result of neglect. People suffering with an acute flat foot condition, usually walk with lagging stride, if able to walk. Incipient arch weakness may be scarcely perceptible in the posture. It becomes evident as the neglected arch progresses from bad to worse.

You must exert an effort to successfully observe correct habits of posture. Muscles must be toned up; the nervous system invigorated. Weak leg muscles may result in turned or weak ankles, which are often a synonym for weak arches. The arches of the feet are sustained in place by ligaments and muscles. When these give way the arches fall or "flatten" and the bones descend toward the ground. The bone displacement causes pressure on nerve centers, obstructs the circulation of blood in the foot, and throws the whole body out of correct poise. Surgical plates or arch supports, intelligently adjusted to the individual foot, may be used temporarily to give the proper correction and stimulate muscular control.

Walking is one of the best exercises to develop habits of proper posture. Walk at least two miles, briskly each day in the open; head up, chest out, toes straight ahead. That tones up and develops the muscles, and helps them to resist the strain we place upon them.

VALUE OF PLAY.

From the New York Evening Post.

Many an industrial census takes account of the value of commercial products. But who can accurately reckon in terms of the dollar the value of play, as well as of industry, to a race that needs a balanced ration of toil and sport? Figures brought forward by Otto Mallery of the playground movement show that 700 cities in America support play centers, that there are 12,000 official recreation directors and that each year the sum of $14,000,000 is needed to meet the bill for the recreational facilities of children. The large returns from a liberal investment are plainly to be seen in the constant increment of health and strength for the young people of America, in whose hands the future rests.

The merchants and business men, wholesalers, manufacturers, and retailers are all taking a lively interest in the plans and liberal contributons have been made to the $3500 fund for prizes that will be awarded on Trades Day. Committees have been at work this week, following a meeting held at the J. I. Riddle Undertaking Company Monday, where details were worked out. The committees number three, one working North of Commerce, another south of Commerce and the third along Belknap. The day will be featured by the help of all local civic organizations and hundreds are expected to participate in the tour advertising the day. The date for the tour is October 28, one week from today.

Revival Gets Off To A Good Start

The tent meeting being held under the auspices of the First Baptist church in this city and which begun Sunday is now under full sway, with a big number of people ready to go forward with the pastor, Rev. Joe Jeffers, assisted by Paul B. Harper.

Both services so far held were well attended, the crowd being seated with difficulty. There are more seats being supplied and there will be ample room for all who will come.

The music is in charge of Mr. Paul B. Harper, assisted by the three choirs, Junior, Intermediate and Senior. Mrs. Ira Needham and Mrs. Paul B. Harper are rendering beautiful music at the pianos. No wonder the crowd sings with such fine leadership. Mr. Harper sang two beautiful solos Sunday. The spirit saith the Lord." The seration of the singer did much to help the service and were indeed a sermon in song."

The text for the morning service was found in Zech. 4-6. "Not by might nor by power but by my spirit sith the Lord." The sermon was especially addressed to Christians. The day has come not will come, but has come when Christians must face the issue of more consecrated lives. Mothers must wake up to their responsibilities as mothers and fathers as fathers. The day of a revival or revolution is at hand. There issues, therefore a clarion call to every man and woman of God to line up and fight for God.

We must do this through family prayer. The pastor in his stirring appeal called all of the families back to prayer.

The text for the evening service was 2 Chron. 6-14. If my people who are called by my name will humble themselves and pray and turn from their wicked ways and seek my face then will I hear from heaven and forgive their sins and heal their lands. About 900 people heard the sermon Sunday night. If Christians will humble themselves and pray the condition which our master gives us to meet His spirit will come upon us in a mighty way. Let us meet his conditions.

Monday Night.

A good Monday night crowd. The services was not lengthy but full of interest and enthusiasm from beginning to end.

The subject was on the Greatest Need in Mexia—Prayer. "Ask and it shall be given Thee—seek and ye shall find knock and it shall be opened unto you." And again "Ye have not because ye ask not, ye ask and receive not because ye ask amiss, that ye might consume it upon your own lusts."

There was one addition at the close of the service.

Landis Summons Yde In Ball Scandal

EMIL YDE

Emil Yde, star pitcher for the Pittsburgh Pirates, has been summoned to Chicago to appear before Baseball Commissioner Landis "with any information he may have" regarding the baseball scandal for which Jimmy O'Connell and Cozy Dolan, of the Giants, were banished from the game. Yde is said to have declared he did not believe they were the only players involved in the scandal.

UNION MEMBERS WANT MORE PAY FOR THE LADIES

CHICAGO, Oct. 21.—Demand for wages high enough to enable them to buy three pairs of silk stockings for their wives each year was made in the request for increased pay on file with the United States Labor Board for consideration.

The brotherhood of railway and steamship clerks, freight handlers, express and station employees declare white collars are not so important for themselves but that the wives should have the silk raiment.

The silk stocking wage demand is a supplementary request filed by President E. H. Fitzgerald, to the salary increase asked last week.

At the present rate of pay, the clerks contend the average wife can afford new silks only "once in a hundred years."

The wages asked are equivalent to the peak war time rate of pay for clerks. It is approximately a ten per cent increase over the present pay.

Large Donations To Campaigns To Be Investigated

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—"We intend to follow every lead and get all the facts.

"If a man makes a large contribution to a political campaign I believe it is proper to inquire whetehr he expects to serve some selfish interest."

Chairman Borah made this statement here today as the Senate inquiry to determine whether corrupt or excessive use has been made of money in the presidential campaign resumed after a recess following the hearing in Chicago.

Borah said the committee would seek the source of every dollar collected, its disposition and the benefits, if any, expected by contributors to the campaigns of the two old parties and the independent movement.

Clem L. Shaver, chairman, and James W. Gerard, treasurer of the Democratic National Committee are the first witnesses scheduled to appear before the committee this afternoon.

The democrats anticipated action of the committee in calling for their campaign contributions from Jesse H. Jones, director of finances, gave out in New York a list of contributors and amounts in the party's campaign fund to date.

TEXTBOOKS ARE CENTRALIZED SAYS TEXAS SURVEY

FORT WORTH, Texas, Oct. 21. Texas has gone further in Centralizing control of public school textbooks than have most states, according to Dr. George A. Works, director of the Texas School Survey. He believes that some changes can be made in the interest of both economy and efficiency. In a report made today he discusses the free textbook and the uniform textbook regulations.

Free textbooks, he points out, are provided by districts in most states, whereas in Texas payment comes from the State Treasury. Even in California where the state prints its own elementary texts at state expense, payment for high school texts is left to the district. But there is no disposition on the part of Texas to make this change, he thinks, so he suggests some ways in which considerable can be saved the state.

One saving can come through a modification of the law in the matter of contracts. This is through allowing newly adopted texts to take their places gradually, replacing worn-out texts of their predecessors as they need to be destroyed. This would save wholesale destruction of books that are yet usable.

Short-time contracts might make another great saving. This would mean save wholesale destruction of books that are yet usable.

Shorttime contracts might make another great saving. This would mean the making of a temporary contract to terminate after a trial of the text in actual teaching had been made and satisfaction or dissatisfaction determined. If there was general satisfaction ,a long-time contract would be made. The textbook Commission has this privilege under present stipulations of the law.

Care of textbooks would mean another saving, and this could be insured by taking the value of the books out of the total apportionment of the given district or county, and so notifying the people of that unit. This responsibility placed on the unit has been found to effect a saving in other states.

Less rigid uniformity is recommended by Dr. Works in choice of textbooks for use in high schools. He suggests that the list of the particular books include several alternatives and that choice of particular books be left to local authorities. High school inspectors from the State Department, would in that case he points out, be instructed to give equal recognition to all books on the approved list.

Sepearate texts should be adopted for Junior High Schools, also, as the books now prescribed for the prevailing type of sixth and seventh grades are not suitable for the junior high school, which is a new type of organization. The present arrangement, according to Dr. Works, is a serious handicap to the reconstruction of curricula of the upper elementary grades. Further, there must be more freedom in choice of texts for special schools, such as those in which Mexican or other foreign elements prevail.

Trial of texts to determine whether or not they are satisfactory should be considered in construction of curricula also, as well as for the sake of economy through short-time contracts. The state should be canvassed to see if texts are proving satisfactory or not.

The public should be kept informed of every move and contemplated action of the Textbook Commission, says the Director. Not only should people know that there is to be a change, but they should be told the reasons for the change, and should be given a general review of the text book situation regularly through the public press and otherwise.

MRS. W. F. CAPERS DIES FOLLOWING TRAGEDY AT CURRIE

One is dead and three lie critically ill at the Brown Hospital as a result of burns sustained in a gas explosion in the home of W. F. Capers, on the Snowden-McSweeney-Longbotham lease three miles north of Wortham, near Currie.

It is reported that Mrs. W. F. Capers arose at six thirty o'clock Tuesday morning and went to the kitchen to light the stove in order to cook breakfast. During the night the house had become filled with gas which was unnoticed by the occupants and upon striking the match the house became enveloped in flames, completely destroying the home and its contents. W. F. Capers age 28 years, Mrs. W. F. Capers, age 25, and their two small children, Gordon, age 7 and Marita, age 4, were seriously burned. They were all brought to Brown Hospital here for medical attention.

Mrs. Capers died at one o'clock Tuesday afternoon, and the other three victims of the explosion are in a very serious condition. Mr. and Mrs. Capers were from Ranger, Texas. The remains are being held at the J. I. Riddle Undertaking Parlors pending arrival of relatives from Ranger.

Davis Criticises Failure To Act On Sugar Tariff Bill

By PAUL R. MALLON
United Press Staff Correspondent.

WITH DAVIS EN ROUTE TO LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 21.—Moving up through Southern Kentucky the final stage of his campaign, John W. Davis today severely criticized President Coolidge for his failure to act on the sugar rates in the tariff bill.

In his typical mild-manner Davis by inference accused the President of playing politics with every American dinner table.

Concluding an argument that the chief executive should have lowered the cost of sugar to the public by ordering a lower tariff on imports, the democratic nominee said: 'Which looks to me as if there was something about a presidential election that had a peculiarly abortive effect upon the judicial process.

Davis pointed out that 18 months ago the tariff commission proceeded "under great public pressure" to investigate the sugar rates. On July 31 he added, the report of the commission advocating a reduction was given to Mr. Coolidge. Now the word has come to him, he said, that the chairman of the tariff commission has been called upon by the President to furnish more data so that the decision will be postponed until after election.

The democratic nominee has taken on new life following the wind-up of his Tennessee campaign in Nashville last night. His intimate friends say he delivered there the best speech of his tour—a warning to business men that "they cannot stamp out radicalism by jumping into the arms of reaction." In classical English he portrayed his opposition to government ownership of railroads and other La Follette proposals, at the same time weaving his words into a plea to vote for the Democratic party as a safe medium between radicalism and conservatism.

Speeches are scheduled today in Bowling Green and Elizabethtown, Ky., before his arrival in Louisville at [illegible] p. m. for a night speech.

MARRIAGE DOES NOT EXCUSE ONE FROM SCHOOL

(By United Press)

CHICAGO, Oct. 21.—Boys and girls of school age cannot escape the school law through medium of matrimony, William Bodine, superintendent of compulsory education ruled in ordering a number of youthful brides back to their classes under pain of jail.

Where the husband is over school age, but the bride is of school age, the husband is responsible, Bodine said.

"I'm going to send these 'cradle robbers' to jail when they fail to send their wives to school," Bodine declared. "All brides under 16 must go to school. And that goes for husbands under 16."

Bodine was notified that dozens of Chicago girls of school age have been married in and around Chicago during the last year, and that nearly all of them are taking advantage of the situation to stay away from school.

The superintendent disclosed that several arrests have been made and prosecutions pending in the cases of "puppy love" marriages.

Bodine contemplated establishment of a checking system of couples granted licenses at several small Indiana and Michigan towns within a 100-mile radius of Chicago.

Three young couples are spending their honeymoons in the classrooms, Bodine disclosed.

Both Sides Claim English Elections

(By United Press)

LONDON, Oct. 21.—Despite opinion of political experts who predict the government's defeat in the next week's general election, Labor headquarters today estimated that Ramsay MacDonald's party will gain from 10 to 40 seats.

The Conservatives and Liberals have failed entirely to stir up the electorate by their attacks on the Russian treaties and the case of Editor Campbell of the Workers Weekly, the Laborites claim.

The popular mandate at the polls will be for Labor's opponents to "shut up and let the government carry on," MacDonald's headquarters assert.

In return for the hero worship and the support of the local fans mowed down the Caney, Kas. battery with his speed and with a sacrifice hit in the ninth paved the way to victory.

Ten thousand people from all over Kansas were here yesterday to witness the game. It was one of the big days in the life of the Washington hurler.

Johnson leaves today for California where he is scheduled for several exhibition games in coast league towns. His last farewell in Coffeyville was a dinner given at one of the churches by the business men of the city.

HUSBAND AND WIFE CANDIDATES FOR SAME JOB ON RIVAL TICKETS

(By International News Service.)

PERRYVILLE, Mo., Oct. 21.—Perhaps the first contest of its kind in the United States is the race this year in Wayne County, Missouri, between a man and his wife as candidates for the same office on opposite tickets.

F. C. Yates, an undertaker of Piedmont, Mo., was nominated at the primary election on the Democratic ticket for Coroner, and then the Republican County Committee placed Mrs. Yates on the Republican ticket for the same office.

Some think the case a case of "heads I win, tales you lose!" But Yates is trying hard to win, supplying the gold-banded cigars to the boys and greeting the ladies cordially wherever he meets them.

Mrs. Yates is not letting grass grow under her feet, either.

BIG TENT REVIVAL GETS OFF TO GOOD START IN MEXIA

The greatest need of Mexia is Prayer said Rev. Joe Jeffers, pastor of the First Baptist Church, engaged in a two weeks revival in the big tent at the corner of Main and Paris.

A large Monday night crowd filled practically every seat available and more seats and chairs will be provided in order to accommodate larger numbers.

The big tent is one of the largest ever secured for a revival and will take care of 3,000.

The pastor who is doing the preaching announced his text Monday night for the coming several nights and a meeting was called at 10:00 o'clock Tuesday morning to make arrangements for the two week's meeting.

Cards advertising "Big Tent Revival" are to be seen now on every hand on automobiles owned by people interested in the success of the affair.

Eleven additions were received Sunday and one addition Monday night, giving a splendid start and one quite encouraging.

TWO ADDITIONAL DEATHS TODAY AND MORE EXPECTED

(By United Press)

NORFOLK, Va., Oct. 21.—The mounting death toll caused by the explosion in the forward gun turret of the cruiser Trenton reached six today, and four others of the crew who were burned in the blast during target practice, were said at the naval hospital to be in a "desperate condition."

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—With four dead and eighteen injured the toll of the fatal explosion in the forward twin turret of the new scout cruiser Trenton off the Virginia Capes, the Navy Department today assembled a board of inquiry to determine the cause of this latest of a long list of peace time battleship catastrophes.

The explosion occurred just a few miles off Norfolk, Va. after the Trenton had taken up her position at the target practice drill grounds. First reports said it was caused by a "flare back" such as killed 48 men aboard the battleship Mississippi in the Pacific last spring, but later dispatches said the gun had not been fired and that the cause had not been determined.

The dead and injured were taken off the Trenton at Norfolk last night by speed boats from the naval hospital there and the injured were rushed to the hospital, some so seriously burned that further deaths were feared at the hospital today.

Naval experts here today believed the fatal blast was due to an explosion of powder in the turret.

Three of the men were killed outright by the blast. One was drowned when the access door in the rear of the turret was opened and four men fell overboard because the swing of the turret brought it back over the side of the vessel.

The Trenton put about immediately after the accident and rushed at full speed to Norfolk to discharge the injured.

Admiral Eberele chief of naval operations at once dispatched a message of sympathy to Admiral McCully, commander of the scouting fleet when he was informed of the disaster.

The Trenton is one of the newest types of vessels in the navy, the scout cruisers and had just completed her shake down cruise after being commissioned in the course of which she went to Busnire, Persia and brought the body of Major Robert W. Imbrie, murdered American Consul at Teheran to Washington for burial.

The accident recalls the catastrophe about the U. S. S. Mississippi off San Pedro on June 13 when 48 men were killed in a gun explosion.

WOULDN'T MIND PAPA

Mr. Wilbur, the secretary of the navy, has written a delightful series of bed-time stories on bears. One is entitled, "The-Little-Cub-Bear—That Would-Not-Mind-His-Papa." This may not have been so intended but the title applies perfectly to Teddy the Second, who's now sloshing around in his father's big boots.

President Roosevelt above all things took pride in his advocacy of preserving the natural reserves and strengthening the navy. His son, as assistant secretary of the navy, had fine opportunity to follow his father. He might have felt "called to the kingdom" at the time to carry forward thes two aims of his able father. Instead he toted to the White House the order that gave the naval petroleum reserves away to exploiters. He got nothing for himself, but his brother's salary was increased from $5000 to $15,000. Next, he was representative of the navy in the disarmament conference. He stood mute while Hughes consented to the destruction of the navy's strength and let it be made a poor second.

He is surely the "Little-cub-bear-who-would-not-mind-his-papa." Certainly he acted exactly in an opposite direction to all his father's teachings.

Mash Notes Bane Of Round World Fliers Existence

By CARL L. TURNER,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

ILBUR WRIGHT FIELD, DAYTON, O., Oct. 21.—"Mash letters" are becoming the very bane of the existence of the six 'round the world fliers. Postal clerks say their mail is as heavy as that of Hollywood's finest.

Letters from all parts of the world, but particularly from American flappers, are addressed to the Magellans of the air. And, to use the words of the aviators, some of them are "screamingly funny."

None of the air explorers is married. That was one of the conditions that led to their selection for the long, hazardous journey through unblazed airways.

But the American flapper, or any other, for that matter, will have to continue through life without the much-sought autograph of any of the gallant world fliers. Only letters from school children will be answered. But every child who writes them will receive a personal reply from one of the six.

Incidentally, the globe encircling pilots have caused it to be announced they are "fed up" on chicken—and this for city fathers or society matrons who may be contemplating a banquet in their honor.

Lieutenants Lowell Smith, Erik Nelson, Leigh Wade, Leslie Arnold, Henry Ogden and Jack Harding, Jr., have been feted at banquets in almost every town they have visited since their return to American soil. And almost invariably, they say, chicken has featured the menu.

When the six motored to Columbus to receive the official welcome and congratulations of the people of Ohio, they again were honored with a banquet. As a waiter appeared at the aviators' table it was noticed their faces turned unusually bright—even that of "Smilling" Jack Harding.

"We were joyous, not because our hunger was about to be quited," one of the fliers explained after the dinner, "but because the meat was beefsteak, not chicken."

It will be some time, too, before the 'round the world airmen roll their planes out of the hanger for a pleasure spin, they said.

"Any one who has traveled as far as we have in the air," said Lieutenant Leigh Wade, "has had his fill of flying for a while."

The fliers evidenced the truth of this statement when they elected to come here from Seattle by rail. Also they visited neighboring towns by auto.

Riding in a motor car for any reasonably long distance with the world fliers, however, is not always the fastest way of arriving at the journey's end. They have developed such keen sense of hearing that even a slight "cough" in the motor may cause them to hold up the party while they thoroughly inspect the engine.

They beg to be excused for this eccentricity because, they say, an aviator never rides behind a balky motor when he can avoid it. A fifteen-minute stop was made between Dayton and Columbus to change oil in the car driven by Lieutenant Lowell Smith. The engine had "coughed." But the fliers arrived safely.

OLD DOBBIN LEADS DRY SLEUTHS TO RUM HAUNT

(By International News Service.)

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Oct. 21.—Old Dobbin has been deputized as a prohibition agent.

When dry officials spied a wary-eyed individual driving a horse attached to a spring wagon down a narrow, wooded lane, they had a hunch.

After removing several thirty-gallon judgs of moonshine, they gave old Dobbin "his head." He went straight home, of course, and there another arrest was made and two stills confiscated.

"Now I know what 'horse sense' is," said one dry agent.

Republican Women Leaders Drawing Plans For Getting Out A Record Vote For Coolidge And Dawes In November

After women secured the long-denied right of suffrage, there were some who thought they would organize in a great group and use their power as an independent unit. The belief was unfounded. Experience has shown that the new power is being exercised through the existing political parties.

The picture above shows a group of prominent Republican women leaders conferring in New York headquarters of the Republican National Committee. Seated at the end of the table is Mrs. [illegible] Hert of Kentucky, [illegible] of the Republican National Committee, who is in command of the activities of the army of women throughout the United States working for the success of President Coolidge and Gen. Dawes.

With but one exception, all of these women political leaders are members for their states of the Republican National Committee. Seated at the table, farthest away from Mrs. Hert, is Mrs. J. G. M. Glessner, representing New Hampshire, vice-president of the Society of Colonial Dames in her state. She was state chairman of ways and means in the Harding-Coolidge campaign four years ago.

Seated next to her is Mrs. Charles Sumner Bird, of Massachusetts. Mrs. Bird was president of the Massachusetts Woman Suffrage Association [illegible] the state legislature [illegible] the Constitution was passed. She then organized the Republican women of her state and was chairman of the women's division of the Republican State Committee throughout the 1920 campaign. President Harding appointed her to represent the eastern states on the advisory council during the Conference for the Limitations of Armaments. She founded the Women's Republican Club of Massachusetts and was its first president.

Next to Mrs. Bird is Mrs. Charles Steedman of Rhode Island, a daughter of Henry Lippitt, governor of Rhode Island from 1875 to 1877. She headed the American Red Cross in Providence during the World War, and was a member of the first Republican Women's State Committee. Mrs. Steedman is a member of the Society of Colonial Dames.

Seated on the other side of Mrs. Hert is Mrs. Charles H. Sabin, the daughter of Paul Morton, Secretary of the Navy in the Roosevelt cabinet, and wife of the well known banker of New York. Mrs. Sabin is president of the Women's National Republican Club of New York City, and was a delegate-at-large to the convention which named Coolidge and Dawes.

Standing in front of the pillar is Mrs. J. B. Russ, of Connecticut, president of the Connecticut unit of Coolidge Women's Clubs of America. Standing immediately behind Mrs. Hert is Mrs. W. Bladen Lowndes, of Maryland. She was chairman of the Liberty Loan and War Savings Committee of Howard County and a member of the National Council of Defense during the war. She was chairman also of the War Savings Campaign in Baltimore, which is her home. Her husband is a son of the late Governor Lloyd Lowndes of Maryland. Behind Mrs. Sabin stands Mrs. Charlotte Farrar of New York City, Republican woman leader of the Tenth Assembly District. She is now and was four years ago an active worker at New York City headquarters. She is the only one of those pictured above who is not a National Committeewoman.

SUCCESS BY SACRIFICE ONE OF THRIFT BENEFITS

By S. W. STRAUS,
President American Society for Thrift

A YOUNG man who has made rapid advancement in the business world, and, from every standpoint of good citizenship and personal progress, is an outstanding success, recently was asked to outline the principles which have served for his guidance. His written reply was as follows:

S. W. STRAUS

"I believe in doing more than I am paid to do, because I believe that it will pay me in the long run, and that I can prove to be of greater value to myself and to my friends. If necessary, I will make sacrifices. I have made them in the past, and I expect to make them in the future. I do not believe any man can really succeed who is not willing to make sacrifices, and make them promptly and willingly when they are called for."

Here is one of the best lessons in thrift ever uttered. It would be well if all young men and young women could read it carefully and apply it personally.

It is a lesson in thrift because it teaches success through sacrifice.

All real success must stand on the solid foundation of sacrifice.

This is true in every walk of life and with equal truth it may be said that the practices of thrift are of greatest value because of the strength of character, will-power and complete self-mastery which they impart.

The employee who is willing to make the sacrifice of doing more than he is paid to do—the man or woman who saves at the sacrifice of temporary pleasures, can rest assured they are on the high road to success.

To all those who are imbued with the true thrift spirit, sacrifices are but blessings in disguise.

Novel Golf Match Played October 25

(By International News Service.)

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—A novel golf tournament, intended primarily to arouse interest in the betterment of golf courses through the work of the Greens Section, United States Golf Association, has just been announced by President W. D. Vanderpool, of that association.

The tournament will take place on October 25. It will be an 18-hole affair, the winner being the player, who, on that day, playing his home club handicap, makes the best score against par. Every club in the United States and Canada may participate without in any way interfering with any local events or with anyone's regular week end game.

Many clubs are arranging to offer prizes to their local winners and the U. S. G. A. will give a prize to the national winner. In case of tie scores, duplicate prizes will be awarded.

Golfers who may be playing at another club on the day of the tournament will use their home club handicap against par on the course played.

President Vanderpool was frank to say that the tournament had been planned primarily to arouse the interest of the individual player in the work of the Association's Greens Section, which gathers and disseminates information pertaining to the economical construction and upkeep of courses. The demands upon its services are constantly increasing.

Ulster Still Fights Boundary Commission

(By International News Service.)

BELFAST, Oct. 21.—Ulster Unionists are vigorously continuing their campaign against the setting up of the Boundary Commission, as provided by the last bill passed by Parliament before dissolution.

The first of a series of country-wide protest demonstrations was recently held at Enniskillen, when prominent Ulster and English spokesmen addressed an immense gathering of Fermanagh men.

The campaign will wind up with a hugh meeting in Ulster Hall in this city.

At all meetings a resolution reaffirming Ulster's determination to stand by the Government of Ireland Act of 1920—in which the six-county area now in dispute was given t Ulster—is being passed.

"CANNED JAGS" PUZZLE KANSAS CITY OFFICIALS

(By International News Service.)

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 21.—Canned jags is the latest wrinkle that authorities are trying to iron out of hooch imbibers in this section of the country.

It has stumped the authorities, because the "liquor" cannot be confiscated as an intoxicant, and neither can they arrest a man with it in his possession; nor can vendors be apprehended as violators of the law.

Farmers Know Good Thing When See It

COLLEGE STATION, Texas, October 21.—Farmers of Texas are taking advantage of the opportunity to secure cheap explosives for digging ditches, blasting stumps, quarrying stone and doing other work on the farm from the stocks of surplus wartime supply now being distributed by the United States Department of Agriculture through the various state agricultural colleges. The Extension Service of the A. & M. College of Texas is now preparing to order out the second car of the explosive which has been purchased in recent months by Texas farmers through the Extension farm agents.

The first car which came into the state went to Lamar county farmers and the second will go to Angelina county. Extension agents of other counties are offering to receive orders from farmers within their respective territories who desire to take advantage of the cheap material. There is no charge made for explosive or Pyrotol by government, the congress having appropriated the surplus war stocks to the farmers free, but there was no appropriation made for freight charges and none for putting the powder up in cartridge form for convenient use. The cost to the Texas farmer when bought in the carload lots through the Extension farm agents is about $11.50 a hundred pounds, $6 being for the cost of placing in cartridges and the remainder for freight. Express and local freight shipment costs are prohibitive. Only by pooling their purchases and securing in carload lots can the farmer profit very much. No one individual can secure more than 1,000 pounds.

BURGLARS GET $2 STAMPS IN 5-AND-10-CENT STORE

WHEELING, W. Va., Oct. 21.—Police here maintain that some burglars have a well-developed sense of humor.

Recently robbers entered a 5-and-10-cent store and, in trying to open the safe, broke the combination. They had to content themselves with two dollars' worth of stamps taken from a drawer.

In investigating police found a note on top of the safe.

"Next time," it said, "kindly leave the combination within easy reach and the safe will escape injury. Regretfully yours.

THE REVIVAL ON McKINNEY STREET

Meeting at McKinney Auditorium is drawing large crowds. Last night (Monday night) the auditorium was almost full to every seat, Evangelist Carter is preaching the gospel in such a wonderful, and powerful manner that God is being glorified in every way, and it is having its effects, on his hearers. At the close of his sermon in his powerful discription, of the death, of our master, there were 5 additions to the church.

Evangelist Carter knows the Bible, he never opens the book, but always tells his congregation where he is reading. Also urges them to watch him, closely, and correct him if he makes a mistake.

You are invited to hear him. The singing is the very best, singing alone, is what we have.

ALONG THE SIDE LINES

PRINCETON. — Captain Stout, Gibson, McMillan and Dinamore returned to the Tiger line-up yesterday in time for the hardest Monday practice of the year, in preparation for the Notre Dame game Saturday.

NEW HAVEN.—A long lecture on the individual faults of the players who were held to a tie score by Dartmouth took up most of yesterday's practice for the Eli, followed by a short signal drill.

CAMBRIDGE.—With the exception of Stafford and Howe, quarterback and fullback, the varsity had a rest yesterday, most of them nursing minor bruises sustained in the Holy Cross game, The drill for the others consisted of only a light signal practice and a long drill for the drop kickers.

DALLAS.—The demand recently placed upon the public utilities of Dallas to care for the great crowds attending the State Fair of Texas illustrates the peak loads that such companies must always be ready to handle. The transportation of double the normal number of street car passengers and the handling of heavy increases in electric light and telephone business was accomplished through such preparedness.

ANATOLE FRANCE, GREATEST OF MODERN FRENCH WRITERS, WAS PERVERSE IN EVERY ACT

(By International News Service.)

PARIS, Oct. 21.—When, a few years ago, a high dignitary of the Catholic Church called upon M. Anatole France to inform him that his books has been placed on the Index by the Vatican, and that Catholics the world over had been forbidden to read them, he added:

"M. France, I have never read your books myself."

Anatole France, who was then 75, bowed low to his caller.

"Sir," he said, "permit me to say I have never read your Ten Commandments myself."

Such was Anatole France, greatest of all modern Frenche writers and one of the world's keenest satirists of all times.

Antole France's life can be summed up in one word: Perversity!

France Was Perverse.

Anatole France was perverse. He seemed always to be at cross purposes with the world. He had no morals, and he never sought to hide the fact. He was elected to the French Academy of Immortals, though he was forever berating it. He announced himself a Communist, but later declared he was a Communist no more. He was no hypocrite. When he was through he said so.

When all France was denouncing Captain Dreyfus and demanding that he be kept for life on Devil's Island, off the coast of French Guinea, Anatole France stood shoulder to shoulder with Emile Zola to demand exoneration of the innocent officer in the "Affaire."

Anatole France, whose real name was Jacques Anatole Thibault, was born April 16, 1844, the son of a bookseller, of Paris, and was consequently eighty years old at the time of his death.

He was educated at Stanislaus College, and produced his first really successful book, "The Crime of Sylvester Bonnard," when he was thirty-seven. Then, for nearly half a century, he was famous as a critic, essayist and novelist. He was a skeptic in religion, morals, politics, aesthetics and science. He was even skeptical, he admitted, of his own negations of the things of which he was skeptical.

Perversity was Anatole France's life.

Hated War, But Fought.

Forced as a conscript to fight thru the Franco-Prussian War in 1870, he hated war with a bitterness that was apparent in all his works. But the day war was declard against the Central Powers in 1914, Anatole France demanded that he be enlisted as a private soldier, and during that war he wrote some of the most stirring appeals to the army to stand fast. He declared it would be a crime against civilization to end the war until the Central Powers had been crushed.

Yet as soon as war ended, we find Anatole France denouncing the French Government for continued "militarism," declaring the Versailles Treaty "a crime that would cause untold wars in future."

Ten years ago M. France was reported engaged to marry Mlle. Brindeau, an actress, whom he met while returning to France from a trip to Buenos Aires. The name of Mme. Caillovet was mentioned in connection with the estrangement, it being reported that the author had been helped by her during his early struggles for recognition as a writer.

Four years ago, at the age of seventy-six, he married Mlle. Emma la Prevotte, more than forty years his junior, who had been his housekeeper for years. At that time he declared he "was starting life anew."

Was A Wealthy Man.

In 1921 Anatole France was awarded the $40,000 Nobel Prize for Literature. He was a wealthy man possessed of a marvelously beautiful estate near Tours, to which he often fled during the Summer invasion of American tourists to his beloved Paris, because they importuned him so much for audiences.

It was Anatole France's boast that he had never read the works of any of his contemporaries. He declared he lived in their times and already knew their ideas. His reading was entirely the books of those men or women who had moulded or echoed the thoughts of times gone by.

Among his most famous works were: "A Study of Alfred de Vigny," 1868; a volume of verse, "Les Poemes Dores," 1873; "Les Noces Corinthiennes," 1876; "Locaste et le Chat Maigre," 1879; "The Crime of Sylvester Bonnard," 1881; "Les Desirs de Jean Servien," 1882; "Le Livre de Mon Ami," 1885; "Nos Enfants," 1886; "Balthazar," 1889; "Thais" (his most famous work), 1890; and scores of others.

His book, "The Revolt of the Angels," produced in 1914, was perhaps the most controversial of all the remarkable writings of this most remarkable man.

DALLAS.—Many thousand children of school age in Texas are this month competing in the better home lighting essay contest sponsored by the electrical industry. There are approximately seven thousand contestants in Dallas.

AS TIME PASSES.

Can you remember back to the days when the printed page was merely an uninteresting expanse o fwhite paper made up of black smudges—the days before you learned to read? Some of us can, some can't. It depends on the length of that backward journey along the memory route.

But if you had to give an estimate of the number of words you have read since your first began to pick out letters and words and phrases, your estimate would be too low, unless it went into millions and trillions.

Millions of words read at about fourteen inches from your eyes when man's normal range of vision is forty feet. Can you wonder that at times your eyes have rebelled—have sought artificial means to keep up with the artificial civilization in which we live?

It isn't enough to answer that you see perfectly well. We have no basis of comparison of what we see. In this age of rush and strain eye glasses have filled man's need and he goes on to greater achievements.

FORT WORTH.—One of the features of the work of the Northern Texas Traction company that counted in the recent award of the Coffin Medal for the year was the development of real estate along the lines of the company's transportation system. The award was won in competition with a number of electric tarnsportation companies over the country.

ABILENE.—Seven miles of streets in this city have just been equipped with modern ornamental lighting standards. It was the largest order ever placed for the type of illuminating units employed.

HOUSTON.—The new president of the American Gas Association, elected this month at the annual convention, is H. C. Abell, president of the National Power and Light Company, well known in Texas.

THE CREATIVE IMPULSE

Pessimistic critics of modern industry who are forever harping about the mechanical processes making man a mere automation and destroying his "creative impulse" arouse the indignation of one champion of the present day. He admits that a man may get tired of pushing a button or some other mechanical operation, but argues that the greater leisure which modern industry permits compared with the supposed idyllic days when each cobbler made a complete pair of shoes affords much greater opportunity for mental development and the creative impulse of thought.

It is conceivable that the cobbler often became as weary as his modern successor in the factory who does but one piece of work hour after hour. And when the long day's work was done the cobbler had no such opportunities for recreation, enjoyment or development as his twentieth century substitute. Do any of the idealists who look for the good old days and the good old simple ways pause to imagine how they would like to get along without the comforts and conveniences that mechanical production alone brings within their reach?

A LONG, COLD WINTER?

B—r—r—r! Shut that door! Yakma Indians in the Northwest predict a long, cold, hard winter because there never were so many flies, bugs, bees, wasps, and yellow jackets as during this summer. The tribal sages say this is a sure sign. Ever notice how these weather oracles invariably report "sure signs"; none of the indications or probablys that the official weather man hides behind at times.

But to resume, the Yakima medicine men say that these insects have a hunch on the weather long in advance of humans, and the reason they have been so numerous this summer is because they are laying in a specially big hoard of provender for the winter, which they forsee will start early and stay late.

Maybe the long, cold winter is going to be localized among the Yakima's. Let's hope so, anyway.

Luxurious aeroplanes will be used for the service, which is declared to be very feasible.

Are You Weak, Nervous?

Houston, Texas—"I have used some of Dr. Pierce's remedies and found them perfectly satisfactory. I became rundown in health and had weak and nervous spells. I took the 'Golden Medical Discovery' and the 'Favorite Prescription' and it was surprising how quickly and rapidly I improved. Just a few bottles of each put me in good health. I can recommend the 'Golden Medical Discovery' as a general tonic and the 'Favorite Prescription' for feminine troubles."—Mrs. W. H. Jackson, Route 1, Box 264, N. All dealers.

$25,000 Tub For Paris Beauty

MLLE. BARRY, famous Parisian beauty, insists on taking her equally famous $25,000 gold encrusted bathtub with her on all her journeys. It's quite a contrast to the first bathtub in this country, made in 1842 by Adam Thompson of Cincinnati a seven by four foot tub lined with sheet lead and weighing nearly a ton. When news of the tub spread, agitators predicted all sorts of dire illnesses for foolish mortals who were so reckless as to bathe in tubs, especially in the winter.

Now, less than a century later, even the humblest homes boast of some kind of tub and the coldest weather is no deterrent to the accustomed bath. With an unlimited supply of water merely on the turning of the tap, and a bar of pure, white, Ivory soap, every American is as well equipped from the standpoint of cleanliness as this extravagant Parisian beauty with her $25,000 bath tub.

Readers of this newspaper may obtain free an interesting booklet, "The Care of the Normal Skin," by Dr. William Allen Pusey, President of the American Medical Association. Write for it to Health Cleanliness Service, 80 East 11th Street, New York City.

STRAIGHT TALKS WITH AUNT EMMY

ON NOT GETTING FLATTERED

"Somehow, Aunt Emmy, it scares me when I read of all the ways people lose their money in fake stock and bond transactions. How can you know who is honest and what stocks and bonds are safe to buy?" queried Jane.

"It is easy enough if people only wouldn't be so impatient," replied Aunt Emmy. "There is never any need for haste in investing. It's far better to take a little time to find out the character of the securities offered and of the person offering them. The buying of securities was greatly stimulated by the Liberty Loans. Before Uncle Sam offered Liberty bonds only about 350,000 people in the United States owned securities. Now millions of people are buying stocks and bonds.

"Of course the unscrupulous security vendors have taken advantage of the public's new education in investments. All sorts of bad and questionable securities are being offered for sale. Naturally the majority of the people are not rich, so when a man sets out to sell bonds or stocks through the country he must be prepared to sell in small quantities. 'Baby bonds,' $100 bonds, that is, are popular. If the baby bonds are sound they are as good an investment as any. But before you buy bonds of any kind get good advice.

"Be especially careful about doorstep salesmen. A bond house that floods the country with salesmen is put to great expense. They can't send salesmen all over the United States for nothing, so when a salesman comes to sell you bonds it is important to investigate the quality of the bond he is selling. Your bank will give information about investment houses and investments, and if you follow the bank's advice you will not lose your money.

"Another thing to be looked upon with suspicion," continued Aunt Emmy, "is the man who tries to sell you securities over the telephone. Such men will call up some woman living in the country and say they are calling at the suggestion of a friend. They suggest that she buy such and such a bond that is selling at such and such a price. They ask the woman to hold the wire a moment, then say the price of the bond has gone up a point. Of course these men always call on the long distance 'phone from some large city. Poor little Mrs. Backwoods is so thrilled at this touch with the great world of finance that she buys the bond, only to find out her error later. It's a safe bet that she wouldn't buy sheets and pillow cases over the 'phone from a perfect stranger, but bonds, yes!"

"I see, Aunty," said Jane, "you should always know whom you're dealing with and not get excited and rush into anything just because it sounds flattering and thrilling."

"Exactly," said Aunt Emmy.—Anna B. Aymes.

VALUABLE BOOK FURNISHED BY UNIVERSITY

AUSTIN, Texas, Oct. 21.—Elementary Calculus is the title of a textbook intended for the first year course in calculus, which has been prepared by Dr. M. B. Porter and Dr. H. J. Ettlinger, members of the mathematics faculty of the University of Texas. The book is considered by prominent mathematicians as a distinct contribution to the teaching and subject matter of calculus. There are 2,100 problems with answers and 81 figures. The answers have been worked out by W. M. Whyburn, a former student of the University, who is now assistant professor at Texas A. & M. College. The drawings are the work of W. G. Scarborough and T. B. Greenwood, former engineering students of the University. The book will be published by the Century Publishing Company, of New York, about January 1.

Ferocious Rabbit Blinded by Glare, Nearly Kills Girl

(By International News Service.)

O'NEILL, Neb., Oct. 21.—Miss Teresa Hayden, member of the local high school, was the victim recently of the strangest accident ever recorded here.

She was driving her car on the State highway at night, when a big jackrabbit, blinded by the lights of the automobile, jumped through the windshield of the car. So terrific was the rabbit's impact that two of Miss Hayden's teeth were knocked out and her face severely cut.

The jackrabbit was killed in the collision.

ADVOCATE SEED CORN TEST

The Iowa Bankers Association sent out a bulletin to its members urging the bankers to have the farmer test his seed corn this year because of the heavy damage done to corn last year by dry rot. Enclosed was a letter from a farm crops man at Iowa State College explaining the situation. Germination tests on 32,000 ears of representative seed corn from all sections of the state showed that only about 80 per cent were fit for seed purposes, the rest being either weak or dead. "Dry rot is very prevalent in the seed corn this year and is responsible for the low vitality of a good deal of seed corn. In a great many cases ears may look bright and free from disease but kernels from these ears will show the presence of dry rot mold when germinating in the tester."

Bankers Help

Wife Interfered With His Bath; Wants Divorce

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 21.—Charging his wife with causing him extreme mental suffering by continually interfering with his weekly bath, Andrew Hanson has filed suit for divorce here against Blenda G. Hanson.

Hanson stated in his complaint it always has been his custom to take a bath every week, but in the last three years he declared his wife would do all in her power to prevent him. She would turn off the heater and refuse him the use of hot water and soap, according to the complaint.

Chicago-Florida Road Opens 15th

By A. E. GARVIN,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

CHICAGO, Oct. 21.—The Dixie Highway, Route A, from Chicago to Florida, will be opened officially November 15, according to Charley O-Connor, engineer in charge of construction.

The highway cuts through the Mason-Dixon line and enables motorists to save approximately 1,000 miles of travel en route from Chicago to Florida.

The construction of the important connecting stretches of road through hitherto impassable mountain regions of the South is said to be the most extensive piece of co-operative highway construction and financing in the history of American roads. The funds for the construction in those counties which could not finance the road were raised by civic clubs in Kentucky, Tennessee and North Carolina, by a gasoline tax agreed to by owners of gasoline stations along the route of the highway, and by contributions from various civic and motor associations and individuals in the cities of Chicago, Detroit and Dayton.

Some of the South's most picturesque and historic points are reached and passed through by the highway, and Chicagoans and other Northerners along the route may now tour these places over improved roads that have been hitherto impassable mountain paths. Such places as the famous Blue Grass stock farms of Kentucky, spots made famous in the Revolutionary and Civil wars; the Vanderbilt estates, where the handicraft in woodwork and textiles has attracted interest all over the world, and other features of the Cumberland and Blue Ridge Mountain country.

SPORTLIGHTS.

After the smoke of the week-end pigskin battles had cleared, only five of the eight Southwestern Conference teams remain undefeated, in their own organization.

S. M. the 1923 champs, T. C. U., and the Texas Aggies have all gone through so far without defeat. While Rice and Baylor are both loosers to outside clubs. The Texas Aggies are the only contenders who have not been scored on this season.

The three most formidable contenders for the championship lie between S. M. U. Baylor and Texas A. & M. Of these three the Aggies have the best record. It is not likely that the Horned Frogs or the Rice Owls will hang on very long.

Next Saturday at the State Fair grounds one of the strongest contenders will be eliminated when S. M. U. and the Texas Aggies clash. Although it is possible for a defeated team to win the championship, it rarely is the case.

S. M. U. has yet to face two teams with better material than was put on the field by Coach Doc Stewart last week in the Texas Aggies and Baylor, by defeating these two strong elevens the Mustangs will have almost clear sailing to duplicate last year's fete.

It was Texas's first defeat at the hands of a Southwestern Conference team in three years. Possibly the team is just off for a bad start and will come into their own when they play Florida at Austin on next Saturday.

The Italy High School which was classed as one of the contenders of District B Championship had their hopes shattered last week when they were defeated by Ennis to the tune of 13 to 6. It will be remembered that the Mexia-Ennis score was 33 to 0 in favor of the Black Cats.

The Mexia Black Cats so far have not scheduled a game for next Friday Oct. 24th.

Westminster had a week of rest and will go to Rusk next Friday to meet Rusk College for their first game in two weeks.

In the high school class looks like Itasca and Marlin will be in for the final count.

Florida has tied Georgia Tech this season and the Georgia boys have defeated Penn. State. Wonder if the Longhorns will trample the Alligators to death next Saturday at Austin.

Relentless Prosecution and Severe Punishment Will Check Crime Increase, Says E. A. St. John

Alarming Growth of Burglary and Embezzlement calls for Greater Cooperative Effort.

"FINANCIAL crimes have increased alarmingly since 1913," says E. A. St. John, president of the National Surety Company of New York.

"Losses paid by a group of surety and burglary insurance companies in 1913 totaled $3,328,789. These same companies in 1923 paid losses of $20,912,706, and will pay as much, or more, in 1924. Our own share in 1923 was $7,917,051—the largest of any single company. In 35 years we have paid in losses $40,000,000. If the crime wave is to be checked employers, public prosecutors and magistrates must join in a campaign for relentless prosecution of the criminal and severer prison sentences.

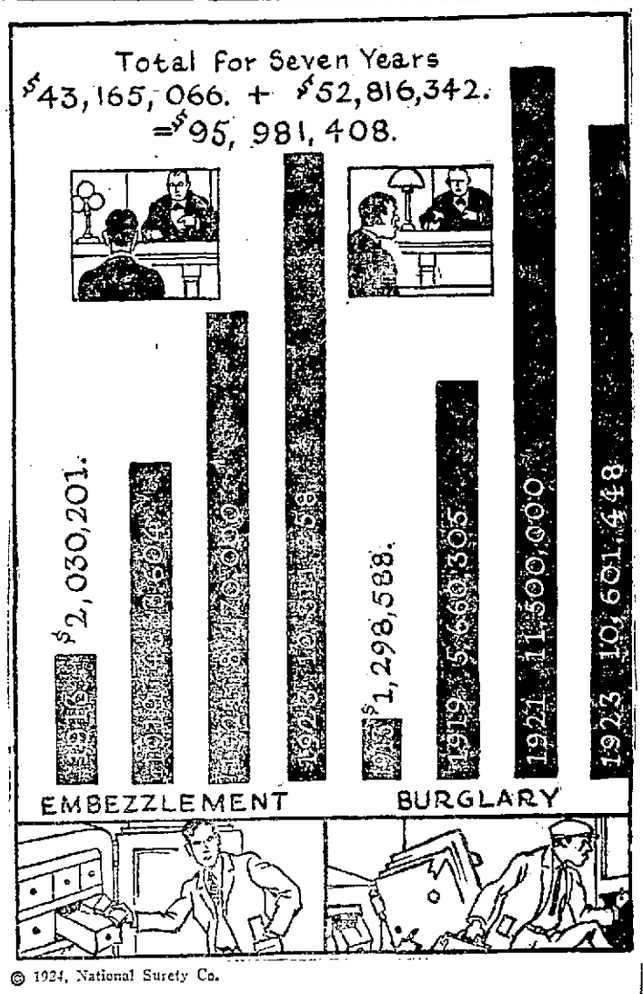
"Financial and commercial institutions must increase protection of messengers and funds; must be more careful in selecting new employes; must watch even old and trusted employes and install better systems of accounts and checking.

"Citizens and public officials must insist upon honesty courses in the public schools.

"Magistrates must increase respect for the law by imposing more severe sentences.

"Surety companies must seek to punish more severely the unfaithful bonded man—they should do, as this company has done—make the punishment fit the crime.

"While these measures will not end burglary and embezzlement they will prevent their increase, and should greatly lessen the yearly loss."



The alarming increase in financial crime from 1913 to 1923.

TRANS-CANADIAN ROAD NEARLY COMPLETED

PORT ARTHUR, Ont., Oct. 21.—Contracts for the construction of 400 miles of road stretching from Port Arthur to Winnipeg have been let at an approximate cost of $10,000,000, according to an announcement by A. W. Campbell, Dominion Highway Commissioner. The new road will form the last link in the 3,000-mile trans-Canada Highway, running from Halifax to Vancouver.

Sinking Ship Blasts Expedition to Arctiv

(By International News Service.)

LONDON, Oct. 21.—A sinking ship, towed into port at Scarborough, on the northeast coast of England, recently, marked the end of an ill-fated Arctic expedition. The ship was the Beltar, and the expedition was led by Grettier Algarsson, a young Icelander.

Early in May of this year the Beltar, a converted trawler, was fitted out for an expedition to explore unknown parts of the Arctic as a prelude to an expedition to the North Pole next year. Algarsson was only 22 years of age, while the members of his small crew were all young Englishmen.

The voyage began July 16, but four days later, when within 100 miles of the Norwegian coast, the ship sprang a leak and it was only with difficulty she reached dock. Temporary repairs were effected, but the expedition was abandoned.

On her way back to Scarborough she again began to leak, and it was only with the help of tug-boats that she was able to reach her berth.

"Tanlac is one medicine that gives results, and when I say that, I speak from experience," is the positive statement of J. H. Gleaves, popular Southern Pacific Ry. yard conductor, 2645 S. Oregon St., Dallas, Tex.

"Before taking Tanlac, I hadn't the spark of an appetite and my digestion and nerves were almost wrecked. At times I would get so dizzy I would nearly fall over and I was pretty nearly past going.

"But Tanlac built up my appetite and digestion, steadied my nerves and soon had me eating, sleeping and working like a different man.

"Then, my 14 year old boy got to suffering from a liver disorder and a number of splotches came on his face. We thought he would have to stop school but Tanlac made his liver act right, cleared up his skin and left him feeling Ok. I can't say enough for Tanlac."

Full Lace Skirt Expresses Youth, Says Style Expert

CHICAGO—Tight fitted basques and full skirts are the debutante's delight, despite the reign of the tube gown, declared Mme. Crone, a director of the Fashion Art League, at the league's annual style show here.

"The clever young girl with advanced ideas wants something that will set out her youthful advantages," said Mme. Crone. "While the straight line still is the strictly correct thing for all informal day wear, progressive young girls are wearing evening frocks with close basques and full, almost bouffant lace skirts. The tight basque and the flow of the draped lace skirt are so much more youthful than the silhouette.

"Chintz flowers cut out and appliqued on lace with edging of gold and silver thread is one of the season's novelties, christened Chic Chintz. The gown illustrated is a close basque with blue, lavender and pink chintz flowers on tan Zion lace. The foundation is flesh colored silver cloth trimmed with a ruching of French blue chiffon.

"Another striking gown, designed by Marge, was all over Zion silk lace in close fitted basque effect with festooned skirt and contrasting diamond shaped insets trimmed with rhinestones. Moni showed a debutante's dance frock with a severely close and plain satin bodice ornamented by a daring futuristic rose in ribbon applique. The skirt was Zion silk lace of the Chantilly type, almost circular in its fullness.

"These refreshingly new styles appeal to the young girl. Nothing could be in more charming contrast to a ball-roomful of straight line gowns than a few of these gay and slim young girlish basques and swirling skirts. For the girl who makes her own dresses the style is ideal and the different delightful novelties at her command this season invite her to the making of frocks that will express her personality."

Policeman Denies He Was Shot and Killed

(By International News Service.)

WHEELING, W. Va., Oct. 21.—The characteristic remark of the immortal Mark Twain that the report of his death was "greatly exaggerated" was echoed here today by Patrolman Harry Rice.

A Pittsburgh newspaper published an account of Rice's death, but the "victim" refused to believe it when he read the article.

Rice recently was shot and wounded by Dave Corbett, of Washington, D. C., who was sentenced to seven years imprisonment in the State Penitentiary for the crime. In publishing the story, the Pittsburgh newspaper stated Rice had been "killed."

Rice was swamped today with congratulations for his remarkable recovery by friends who had read of his "demise."

If your nostrils are clogged and your head is stuffed because of nasty catarrh or a cold, apply a little pure, antiseptic cream into your nostrils. It penetrates through every air passage, soothing and healing swollen, inflamed membranes and you get instant relief.

Try this. Get a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm at any drug store. Your clogged nostrils open right up; your head is clear; no more hawking or snuffing. County fifty. All the stuffiness, dryness, struggling for breath is gone. You feel fine.

A TUNIC FOR EVERY TASTE IS THE PARIS MESSAGE

THE tunic frock continues to dominate the mode, and understandably, for it is one of those rare fashions which is adaptable to all occasions and to all types. For there are tunics and tunics, from the ultra long and tight, to the equally ultra flounced and flaring.

But withal, the tunic mode is as varied as the genius of its sponsors. Lelong, whose opening occurred recently, showed, we are told, "a very good and simple afternoon frock with a tunic in black Drapella split at the sides and at the back and buttoned with a few big buttons. The panels and fourreau were bordered with silk braid. A narrow band of ermine round the neck gave a very young aspect to this pretty mode model. Quite often the dresses were made in two fabrics, one forming decorations on the other, or one used for the top and the other for the skirt, for example, stripes of ottoman on crepe Georgette, or a crepe tunic on a skirt in velours de laine."

For the more conservative woman, this tunic dress, whose beltlessness is relieved by the disposition of the trimming, and which concedes a slight draping over the hips, will greatly appeal. Its good style is apparent, and its appropriateness for afternoon wear, pleasingly evident.

The model shown, which was sent to us from Paris by the Cheney Style Service, was made in pale green crepe de chine, embroidered with bright green. The narrow band at the neck, and the underskirt are of Mirrokrepe in the bright green. The dress would be also effective, and perhaps a little more practical, if carried out in the various rust or wood tones favored by Paris.

The use of the neckband continuing in a scarf effect has already been noted. It was a feature of the Jenny collection, according to word received from Henri Creange, and Patou, too, utilized this theme in many of his afternoon models.

Women Spending 85 Per Cent of Money in The U. S.

(By International News Service.)

CHICAGO, Oct. 21.—Who spends the money in the United States?

Women spend 85 per cent of it, answers Miss Mary L. Downes, High Chief Ranger of the Women's Catholic Order of Foresters, one of America's large fraternal societies operated both for and by women. The fair sex is becoming more and more the money investing half of the domestic sketch, the expert asserts.

AMERICANS REVIVE "PLUG" HAT FASHION IN LONDON

(By International News Service.)

LONDON, Oct. 21.—The "plug" hat, relic of a past generation in English social life, is again coming into favor.

Strange to relate, its revival is due in no small measure to the American "invasion" to England this Summer and Fall.

The visit of the American advertisers and the American Bar Association to England entailed a huge round of social activities. Many of the American visitors, under the impression that the "plug" hat was still universally worn here at all social functions, wore them on all occasions, with the result that English society followed.

Hatters report an increasing demand for the "plug," and state that it is definitely back to stay.

Keep on telling 'em and you will keep on selling 'em. News Advertising brings desired results.

GOLDEN WATER WELL IS FILLED UP AGAIN

TOKYO, Oct. 21.—The mystery concerning the sudden drying up of the Golden Water Well, in the compound of the Imperial Palace, has been cleared up.

The well dried up early in August for the first time since the establishment of the old Edo Castle on that site, and was thought by experts to have some sinister foreboding, as the phenomenon could not be explained. Just recently it suddenly became productive again and now has its usual flow of clear, extremely cold water.

The sudden stoppage of its flow is accounted for now by the construction of another well in the palace compound.

Even this explanation, however, is not satisfactory to many, who think there is magic connected with the Golden Water Well. The latter is but fifty-five feet deep while the new one has a depth of 300 feet. Therefore, some authorities think there is no connection between the two and that the Golden Water Well gets its supply from an entirely different source.

DO YOU KNOW HOW TO STAND AND WALK CORRECTLY?

Only One Person in Any Fifty You Can See on a City Street Really Knows How to Walk, Say Experts.

One of the first things the army does after the new recruit has passed his physical examinations is to teach him to stand correctly. Unless he learned to do this he could neither bear up under the long, hard marches nor could he support the weight of his pack. It is just as necessary for the great civilian army to adopt a correct posture. The first step for civilians in learning a correct posture is to correct defects of the feet, and to wear proper shoes. Read this important article by Dr. William M. Scholl, noted foot orthopedist of Chicago; it has a message of helpfulness for everyone.

By DR. WM. M. SCHOLL.

Few persons realize how important it is to health to have a correct posture in standing and walking. An eminent orthopedic expert recently said only one person out of every fifty really knows how to walk. And I am inclined to believe there is a great deal of common sense in the statement.

When it does not actually indicate their existence, an incorrect posture often results in bodily ailments. In fact, you can sometimes give a good snap judgment of one's bodily condition by his walk. Of course, this is not a real test. Many healthy people stumble along as though they had one foot in the grave.

When the muscles that should hold the body erect are weak and relaxed, the body droops forward. When nervous energy is diminished by overwork, exhaustion, recent illness, worry to fatigue or other cause, the muscles of the back which, largely, pull the body into an upright position, fail to contract properly, because of insufficient nervous stimuli, and faulty posture is the result.

One who has been ill is surely not to be blamed if he does not walk with body upright, head thrown back, and with elastic step. But most cases of wrong posture such as you see everywhere are those of fairly healthy persons. Usually they can be readily corrected.

Digestive and abdominal disturbances, headaches, nervous instability, pulmonary troubles, and those of circulation, and most marked of all, foot troubles and fatigue out of all proportion to the effort of walking, are among unwelcome results that may follow an habitually wrong posture.

Not long ago an industrial commission studied how wrong posture reacts upon the health of employees. They found:

"The habits of posture that produce round shoulders and forward drooped head lessen the space in the chest for the lungs, and may inflict great injury to the organs within the abdominal cavity."

Continuing the report says: "The wide separation of ribs on the high shoulder side interferes with the entrance of tidal air, particularly on that side. In the case of a large number of persons having tuberculosis, this posture is the habitual one, and the disease first invaded the apex of the lung on the side of the high shoulder.

"A variety of conditions are active in producing a downward displacement of the organs. This bent forward posture, especially in individuals of a tall and slender build, is conducive to it. The normal folds and turns in the digestive tube are deepened by the folding inward of the wall of the abdomen on the belt line, and by the downward crowding that takes place."

It is impossible to maintain a correct posture for any length of time if one has weak or defective feet. The first step to encourage right posture is to correct remediable defects of the feet. Happily most static foot defects can be corrected without serious inconvenience. Artificial correction can be temporarily employed to restore misplaced bones to normal position. If the foot trouble is due to some systemic condition or disease, a physician should be called in. Next, the shoes should be built upon correct, orthopedic principles and correctly fitted. The stockings should not bind or cramp the feet.

Weak and defective feet are a frequent cause of wrong posture. It is probably not far from the mark to say that almost 90 per cent of the adult population has some form of foot defects or weaknesses of a serious or minor character.

Persons with ailing feet have difficulty in walking naturally. There is a tendency to avoid pressing upon the weak or afflicted region and to throw the body's weight elsewhere upon the foot. This may strain and distort other parts of the foot. No part of the human frame is subjected to such powerful mechanical forces as are the small bones of the foot. When this weight is improperly borne, the force is sufficient to distort any foot or shoe.

To sustain the body's weight properly, both our heels and the toes are meant to touch the ground. In other words, the long axis of the body should form a right angle with the sole. In this attitude only is the body's weight transmitted evenly to all weight-bearing portions of the foot.

In most cases, the body is held with least resistance to the law of gravity when a line from the base of the brain to the heel is perpendicular to the earth. This applies when the body is erect and still.

When the body is incorrectly held, muscular effort is required to prevent it from toppling forward, or back, or sideways. By elevating the heel of the foot, for example, with an extreme high heeled shoe, the body is pitched forward, so that the center of the body gravity falls at a point forward of the foot. One who stands in that position for any length of time is compelled to bend backwards to maintain his equilibrium. The effort to keep erect may bring about certain compensatory changes in the body, such as: contraction, or shortening, of the calf muscles, weakness of the knee muscles, weakness of the front muscles controlling the knee; the knees are bent forward, the shoulders backward, and the abdomen forward, thus displacing some of the abdominal organs.

There may be an increase in the curve of the lower spine which predisposes to weakness of the pelvis and spinal column. Backaches, headaches, cramps in the calves, callosities under the ball of the foot are but a few of the possible results. High heels may cause weak ankles and be responsible for strains and sprains around the ankle joints.

Harmful results follow high heels more frequently when the change from low or flat heeled shoes to high heels is made suddenly. When high heels are adopted gradually from childhood to young womanhood the foot may have been "educated" to assume in a relaxed condition the position of the high heeled shoe.

People who stand upon their feet all day in the course of their employment, with little change in position, usually stand with feet slightly abducted (toes out). This tends to throw the weight toward the inner border of the foot. This posture strains some of the muscles and ligaments, while others remain comparatively inert, not actively contracting. The correct posture, of course, is feet straight ahead. Barbers, waiters in restaurants, mail carriers, policemen and others who are constantly upon their feet often develop a pronounced flat-foot condition. Some cities give special attention to the policemen's feet, with beneficial results.

Forcing the foot into narrow-toed and short shoes alters the shape of the foot and renders a graceful carriage impossible. The metatarsal arch at the ball of the foot may weaken, flattening out the foot, which, in turn, forces out the uppers of the shoe beyond the shoe sole.

The most common of all serious foot defects is the weak or depressed arch with flat foot as the impending result of neglect. People suffering with an acute flat foot condition, usually walk with lagging stride, if able to walk. Incipient arch weakness may be scarcely perceptible in the posture. It becomes evident as the neglected arch progresses from bad to worse.

You must exert an effort to successfully observe correct habits of posture. Muscles must be toned up; the nervous system invigorated. Weak leg muscles may result in turned or weak ankles, which are often a synonym for weak arches. The arches of the feet are sustained in place by ligaments and muscles. When these give way the arches fall or "flatten" and the bones descend toward the ground. The bone displacement causes pressure on nerve centers, obstructs the circulation of blood in the foot, and throws the whole body out of correct poise. Surgical plates or arch supports, intelligently adjusted to the individual foot, may be used temporarily to give the proper correction and stimulate muscular control.

Walking is one of the best exercises to develop habits of proper posture. Walk at least two miles, briskly each day in the open; head up, chest out, toes straight ahead. That tones up and develops the muscles, and helps them to resist the strain we place upon them.

VALUE OF PLAY.

From the New York Evening Post.

Many an industrial census takes account of the value of commercial products. But who can accurately reckon in terms of the dollar the value of play, as well as of industry, to a race that needs a balanced ration of toil and sport? Figures brought forward by Otto Mallery of the playground movement show that 700 cities in America support play centers, that there are 12,000 official recreation directors and that each year the sum of $14,000,000 is needed to meet the bill for the recreational facilities of children. The large returns from a liberal investment are plainly to be seen in the constant increment of health and strength for the young people of America, in whose hands the future rests.
